The Columbian.

A WESTERN TRIP.

To The Columbian·

On Monday, August 29th it was the privilege of the writer to start for Wisconsin on a brief pleasure trip. Taking the Pennsylvania Railroad, the beatiful ride along the banks of the Susquehanna soon brought us to Harrisburg. At 7:20 p. m. the Columbian Express drew into the depot, and I boarded it, en route for Chicago. This is an elegant train composed of vestibuled cars. There are several sleepers, a dining car, two day coaches, a smoker, and baggage cars. The smoking car is much more luxurious than the ordinary second class or emigrant cars that one usually finds on most trains. It is fitted up with settees and movable arm chairs, and the windows are large and clear, so that one can take in the view of the country in passing along. Notices posted up request that non- smokers and those that have finished will return to their regular seats in the train, so that others may be accommodated, as the car is not large enough to hold all the men on the train at once. The smoking room is locked at 10 o'clock p. m.. During the evening I met Clarence Butt of Benton who was on his way to Valparaiso, to attend the Normal School of Northern Indiana. A little later I made the acquaintance of Rev. John G. Ewens, a young priest of the Episcopal church, who was on his way to Milwaukee to enter upon the labor of his calling, under Bishop Nicholson. We traveled in company until we reached that city, and his entertaining conversation helped greatly to overcome the tedium of travel. I reached Chicago on the 30th, at 3 p. m., without any special incident. Having nearly three hours to wait, I improved it by calling on J. Clarence Fitzpatrick, formerly the assistant of W. R. Tubbs at the Exchange Hotel. He is in the accounting department of the Electric Light works, and as it was the last of the month, he was very busy. He was looking well and wished to be remembered to his Bloomsburg friends.

From there I walked around a couple of blocks to see C. F. Woodhouse, formerly of the firm of Alexander & Woodhouse. He is nicely located and is apparently doing a good business. The years that have passed over him since he left Bloomsburg seem to have rested on him lightly, for he has changed but little. At 6 o'clock we boarded the cars on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road. This is one of the most extensive and enterprising companies of the northwest. Its roadbed is excellent, its management judicious, its equipment perfect, its officials thorough railroad men, and its employes attentive and polite. Its trains are lighted by electricity and heated by steam. In the dining car we partook of an excellent course dinner which cost seventy-five cents, which was fully as good as one can get on the eastern roads for $1.00. Mr. John R. Pott of Williamsport is the eastern agent on this road.

Milwaukee was reached at 9 p. m. and here it was necessary to remain over night, leaving at 7:20 next morning, and arriving at my destination, Plymouth, at 10 o'clock, on the Milwaukee & Northern road. This city can also be reached by the Chicago & Northwestern, another of the great systems of the west. Any traveler who desires any information concerning this road should write to T. P. Vaille, Southeastern Passenger agent, 112 South Fourth street, Philadelphia.

At Plymouth a most delightful week was spent with my wife and son who had gone out a month before, and with relatives and friends, some of the latter having been met nearly thirty years ago on the occasion of my first visit to the place. At that time Plymouth was scarcely more than a hamlet of three or four hundred inhabitants. Now it has at least two thousand, is organized under city government, has fine stores, chair and furniture factories, planing mills, flouring mills, cheese factories, and many other industries.

A new $22,000 dollar school house has just been begun. The Bank of Dow & Son furnishes banking facilities. The population is largely German. There is not a single African in the city. A fine new hotel is nearly completed, and it is expected that it will be kept in such a way as to overcome its very objectionable location.

There are many very handsome residences, and the people are warm hearted, hospitable and generous.

Just above the city there is a large pool of water, made by damming the Mullet River.

Eighteen years ago on one of my visits, the croaking of the frogs disturbed my slumbers so much that I decided to depopulate the stream, if possible. Going out next day with no other weapon than a club, a large number of the jumpers were gathered in, and furnished an elegant meal. On this last visit I secured the services of a small boy to catch some frogs, the bargain being made in the presence of the boy's father, a good, honest German. The boy went out and the father asked me in broken English what I was going to do with the frogs. When I told him we would eat them, he simply threw up his hands and with an expression of holy horror on his face he exclaimed "Mein Gott." It wasn't necessary for him to say more, as that fully expressed his opinion of people who eat frogs. And yet lots of people have felt just the same way. I used to think so myself, until I tried them and found them more delicious than chicken. Well, the boy brought in thirty frogs in about two hours, and we all enjoyed a delicious supper. I suspect that he got more than that, and took some home to break his father in on, but I dont know for sure.

The Episcopal church at Plymouth contains a fine pipe organ, presented eight years ago by the daughter of Judge Elwell, Mrs. C. E. Smith, and her daughters, as a memorial to their husband and father, P. H. Smith. On Sunday morning I was requested to remain after church in the evening and try the organ, and I assented, supposing that only the family and a very few friends would remain. Imagine my chagrin when after evening service, the entire congregation remained seated, and I was informed that they were waiting to hear the organ recital. Somebody had quietly passed the word around and the joke was on me. Of course no preparation had been made for such an occasion, but being in for it, I did the best I could, and made a lot of noise, at least. I felt however, as though I had gone to church once too often that day.

One day we spent at Elkhart Lake, a beautiful resort about six miles from Plymouth, only 15 minutes by rail. It is a beautiful sheet of water about three times as large as Eaglesmere. On its banks are seven large hotels, and numerous handsome cottages, and there is plenty of good boating and fishing. One Chicago man has erected a beautiful villa, and this season he employed four gardeners and spent $5000 on his grounds. As we were leaving the lake and reached the depot, our attention was called to a steamer trunk standing on end on the platform, and from it was oozing something that looked like oil or varnish. When the lady who owned the trunk appeared we soon learned what it was. She had packed a jar of strained honey in her trunk, and it had broken. No doubt when she reached home she found her party dresses just too sweet for anything. Not being a man she didn't say what she thought about it.

On leaving Plymouth we found a man acting as baggage master, who ought to be given an assistant or else relieved entirely from all dnty. Though we had purchased tickets and had nearly ten minutes before the train started, he refused to check our trunks, which would have taken about ten seconds. The result of his obstinacy or inefficiency was that we were obliged to wait at Milwaukee until the check was sent to us next morning.

Milwaukee is called the "Cream City" and it is a beautiful place. There is great wealth there, and some of the residences are maginficent, rivalling the castles and palaces of the old world. As we rode over well paved avenues and past the velvet lawns with palms and ferns and rare plants everywhere, we inquired of the driver whenever we saw a particularly stricking residence, as to its ownership. Each time his answer was the name of the owner of a big brewery or official of a brewing company. Milwaukee beer has made big fortunes for its manufacturers.

The weather at Chicago was so bad that no time was spent in that city, but taking the good old Pennsylvania road again, we sped on homeward and reached here on September 8th. But little was heard about politics. The Sullivan-Cobett fight was the all absorbing topic, and naught else was talked about. Every man in the sleeper was up in time to get a paper at Pittsburg, the morning after the fight, and every man but one was glad that Sullivan was whipped. The one dissenter had bet heavy money on John L, and lost.

After an absence of eleven days, wich we would have gladly made as many weeks, we reached home to buckle down again to the routine of editorial life and to realize more fully than ever that the staff of life is earned by the perspiration of the brow. E.

Glasco Cameron's barber shop has been newly painted, and this with the new paper recently put on the walls, gives it a very bright appearance.

BERGMAN SENTENCED.

TWENTY-ONE YEARS IN PRISON.

Pittsburg, Sept. 19.–Alexander Bergman, the Anarchist, who tried to kill H. C. Frick, was placed on trial this morning in the criminal court, Judge McClung presiding. Bergman was cool and looked well. He pleaded not guilty to the six charges of felonious assault and battery, entering a building with felonious intent and carrying concealed weapons. He had no counsel, and preferred to conduct his own case. A jury was obtained with trouble and the case was opened.

H. C. Frick was the first witness. He told of Bergman's visit to his office previous to the shooting, and recited the story of the attempted assassination. The clothing worn by him on the day of the assault was exhibited. The coat and trousers were blood stained and filled with holes. When they were shown Bergman coolly leaned forward, but did not seem to take any interest in the exhibit.

Ae was asked if he wanted to ask any questions, and replied: "I want to ask him if I said I wanted to shoot Mr. Leishman for I did not."

The witness said he did not know whether he did or not."

"That is all," said the defendant. "I have no more questions."

Dr. Litchfield described the nature of Mr. Frick's wounds. Vice Chairman Leishman's testimony in the main was a corroboration of the evidence given by Mr. Frick.

When Judge McClung asked Bergman if he had anything to say he produced a phamphlet, from which he started to read. Judge McClung tried to hold him to a discussion of facts, but Bergman continued in a wild sort of harangue until Judge McClung finally stopped him. In giving his motive for the crime Bergman said: "My reason for my act was to free the earth of the oppressors of the workingmen. I wanted to punish him, not murder him. I did not assault Mr. Frick but the person who had oppressed organized labor. I recognize no man by a name, but the cause of the trouble, and I wanted to remove the cause" Here the court interrupted him. "You have had your time," said the court "and you must stop. We have been too indulgent,"

The case was then given to the jury, and without leaving the box a verdict of guilty was found. The defendant was at once called for and sehtenced and said: "I did not expect justice and I did not get it."

He was then sentenced to twenty-one years inprisonment in the penitentiary on the five charges of felonious assault and entering a building with felonious intent, and one year to the workhouse for carrying concealed weapons. Bergman looked sullen and throwing back his head put his hat on and started to leave the room. He was at once taken in charge and removed to jail.

On his arrival at the penitentiary Bergman was carefully searched. It is believed that if opportunity offers he will carry out his threat of suicide, and for that reason he will be closely watched and kept in close confinement for six months.

From the Moon to Iowa.

I believe it is now pretty generally admitted that aerolites or meteorites come from volcanoes on the moon. One of the most remarkable of these falls of stones from the upper region of the air occurred in May, 1879, the stones falling upon the farm of Mrs. C. H. Perry, of Emmett County, Iowa. Efforts were made to have the stone removed to the museum of the Davenport, Ia., Academy of Science, but as such a proceeding would entail an expense of something like $200 the mossbacks of that institution let the scheme fall through, the attempt to raise the money having resulted in flat failure. Finally a Mr. Berge, of Keokuk, made a trip to Emmett County for the porpose of inspecting the curiosity.

After giving it a thorough chemical examination he came to the conclusion that it was unlike anything in the aerolite line that had ever been attracted to our globe. By a fine system of chemical test he found that it was composed of earth, triolite, iron nickle, cobalt, gold, silica, magnesia, alumina, soda, lithia, and potassium. Berge bought the oddity off Mrs Perry for $160 and gave the tenant of the farm $50 more for his "right" and his help. It was removed to Keokuk and exhibited there for some time. At last the curators of the British Museum, who had learned of the odd combination of minerals in the stone's make-up, sent an agent to purchase it. After much bickering the royal institution gave Mr. Berge $6500 for his "moonstone." It weighed 431 pounds.

WALLER.

Mrs. McHenry and daughter, Ella went to Bloomsburg on Saturday.

Rev. J. G. Whitmire occupied the pulpit on Sunday for the first time in several weeks. He was taken sick while attending campmeeting and has just recovered sufficiently to begin his work again.

Mr. John Young has the sympathy of this entire neighborhood in his sore bereavements. Only two weeks ago his wife was laid to rest in the Waller cemetery and last week a little child followed in the sleep which knows no awakening to which we are all hastening.

Rev. S. I. Shortess an old veteran will take part in the soldiers grand review at Washington, and visit friends in Philadelphia and Baltimore by the way.

Mr. Charles Lemons buried a child at this place on Monday.

This little town does not seem to take a very active part in any of the great political demonstrations, that are so common at presidential elections, but if every place would give Cleveland as many votes proportionately, the other parties had better save their ammunition.

A Proof of Death.

If most people are afraid of anything it is of being buried alive. That cases do happen where it is difficult for the most experienced physicians to determine whether a person is really or only apparently dead, may be judged from the fact that at different times scientific associations and even governments have offered prizes for the discovery of some means by which it might at once be determined whether death had actually ensued or not. As late as 1878 the French Academy of Sciences offered a prize of 40,000 francs for a practical "death test." The professor who obtained the prize gives the following unique directions, which, if carried out to the letter, will prove conclusively whether or not life is extinct. Take the hand of the supposed dead person and hold it between yourself and lighted lamp. Extend the fingers so that each one touches his fellow. Then look at the space between them. If a scarlet red color appears where the fingers touch, life is not extinct, because the scarlet lines show that the blood is still circulating through the tissues, which have not yet congested.

If, on the other hand, the experiment show no red lines. life has indeed vanished and there is no further hope of reviving the "tabernacle of clay," or fears of burying it alive. It is said that the most extensive and thorough trials have established the truth of these observations.

Resolutions of Condolence.

Whereas it has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst our beloved and esteemed brother, Dr. T. C. McHenry, and while with obedient hearts we humbly submit to his inscrutable providences, we nevertheless sadly deplore the sudden stroke that has caused a vacancy in our lodge room, and that has covered the entire community with gloom. Be it therefore,

Resolved, That in his death, Lodge No. 746, I. O. of O. F., our order has lost an esteemed brother, a strong pillar, a useful member and an enthusiastic worker.

Resolved, That our community has been deprived of an eminent physician, a friend to the poor, and an enterprising and progressive citizen.

Resolved, that we extend to the family of the deceased, who have been bereft of a kind husband, a devoted father and a sympathetic protector, our heartfelt sympathy and commend them to the watchful care of Him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That our lodge room be draped with the usual insignia of mourning or a period of thirty days.

Resolved, That a copy of the resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, that they be published in the Benton Argus, the Columbian, Sentinel and Republican of Bloomsburg, and that they be engrossed upon the minutes of this louge.

The Steam Laundry.

Everything is now in shape at Chamberlin's Steam Laundry on Centre street, and they are turning out some fine work. The clothes are wasned by steam and made thoroughly clean without the use of any material that rots the cloth. Special arrangements can be made for family washes, by the pound, when the ironing is done at home.

A New Summer Resort.

JUDGE RHONE'S PLAN TO CONVERT THE HUNTINGTON VALLEY INTO A SUMMER CITY.

Judge Rhone, ever alert to advance the material interests of Huntington Valley, has a project on foot to build a dam at high bridge, along the turnpike, and make an immense lake covering the land lying between that point and Town Line. This was originally a vast lake, the out-let furnishing the motive power for a grist mill in Hopkins glen which ground the whole product of the early Huntington settlers. The area that would be flooded is between two and three hundred acres, and is full of crystal springs, one having a discharge that would fill a two-inch pipe.

Judge Rhone's plan is to stock the lake with fish and sell the lots along the banks to people from the neighboring towns and cities who are in search of wholesome air and pure water. The proposed lake would be within three miles of Shickshinny and on the line of the projected electric railway to Harveyville. The land that will be flooded is too wet to be valuable for farming purposes and the farmers are ready to dispose of it at its actual value. The farm of Mr. J. D. Woodworth will be largely covered and parts of those adjoining.

County Surveyor Crockett made a survey of the property on Monday and will make an accurate estimate of the number of acres flooded and the size of the dam required.

Huntington Valley is an inviting spot for a summer resort and if Judge Rhone succeeds in his scheme it will make a boom in surrounding real estate. A summer population such as a lake of this kind would draw, would make a home market that would set the farmer on his high horse.—Shickshinny Echo.

They gave him welcome that was fairly unbounded in its kindly enthusiasm, and before the curtain had gone down on the first act they were convinced that he lost none of his former power, and had gained some. He was the same Frank Mayo they had seen before. But there were other improvements. The remarkable little drama "Davy Crockett," which displays the "simplest and purest affections in a chastely, heroic style of art', was given a superior production. The scenery was especially good, the costumes were attractive and the company, as a whole, was able and had been well trained to do the best that was in them. The general effect, for such a production, was strikingly impressive. The play is superior in some respects to anything of its kind offered from the stage.—St. Louis Republican.

Will appear at Bloomsburg Opera House' Thursday evening Sept. 29th.

The meeting of democratic societies at Scranton, Tuesday was a decided success, both as to numbers and enthusiasm. There were about one thousand delegates present, besides, about five hundred friends. Hon. Chauncey F. Black of York was re-elected president of the Societies, and J. D. Worman, secretary. The Bloomsburg Young Men's Democratic Club, was represented by W. B. Taylor, Freeze Quick and Wm. Rhodomoyer; Freeze Quick was placed on the Committee of Credentials, and Wm. B. Taylor, on permanent organization. J. H. Mercer County Chairman; L. Lowenberg and M. Ellenbogen of Bloomsburg were also in attendance. Hon. E. M. Tewksbury was the delegate from Catawissa township.

A FISHING PARTY.

On Tuesday morning a party of ten started up the canal on Dodson's house boat, their destination being Shickshinny, and their object being to fish for bass for a few days. The boat was comfortably fitted up, and contained all the necessaries of life, and some of the luxuries. The commissary department was stocked under the direction of J. D. White, one of the party. The others were J. K. Lockard, R. W. Oswald, J. R. Schuyler, C. H. Campbell, A. Bloom, J. A. Hess, J. H. Maize, C. B. Ohl.

A most enthusiastic audience greeted Frank Mayo at the California Theatre last evening to witness his manly impersonation of "Davy Crockett," the honest backwoodsman, a character created by Mr. Mayo many years ago, and one with which he has become so thoroughly identified as to have rendered it and him inseparable, so much so that the two will forever be linked together in the history of the drama and its actors.—San Jose paper.

BERGMAN SENTENCED.

TWENTY-ONE YEARS IN PRISON.

Pittsburg, Sept. 19.–Alexander Bergman, the Anarchist, who tried to kill H. C. Frick, was placed on trial this morning in the criminal court, Judge McClung presiding. Bergman was cool and looked well. He pleaded not guilty to the six charges of felonious assault and battery, entering a building with felonious intent and carrying concealed weapons. He had no counsel, and preferred to conduct his own case. A jury was obtained with trouble and the case was opened.

H. C. Frick was the first witness. He told of Bergman's visit to his office previous to the shooting, and recited the story of the attempted assassination. The clothing worn by him on the day of the assault was exhibited. The coat and trousers were blood stained and filled with holes. When they were shown Bergman coolly leaned forward, but did not seem to take any interest in the exhibit.

Ae was asked if he wanted to ask any questions, and replied: "I want to ask him if I said I wanted to shoot Mr. Leishman for I did not."

The witness said he did not know whether he did or not."

"That is all," said the defendant. "I have no more questions."

Dr. Litchfield described the nature of Mr. Frick's wounds. Vice Chairman Leishman's testimony in the main was a corroboration of the evidence given by Mr. Frick.

When Judge McClung asked Bergman if he had anything to say he produced a phamphlet, from which he started to read. Judge McClung tried to hold him to a discussion of facts, but Bergman continued in a wild sort of harangue until Judge McClung finally stopped him. In giving his motive for the crime Bergman said: "My reason for my act was to free the earth of the oppressors of the workingmen. I wanted to punish him, not murder him. I did not assault Mr. Frick but the person who had oppressed organized labor. I recognize no man by a name, but the cause of the trouble, and I wanted to remove the cause." Here the court interrupted him. "You have had your time," said the court "and you must stop. We have been too indulgent,"

The case was then given to the jury, and without leaving the box a verdict of guilty was found. The defendant was at once called for and sehtenced and said: "I did not expect justice and I did not get it."

He was then sentenced to twenty-one years inprisonment in the penitentiary on the five charges of felonious assault and entering a building with felonious intent, and one year to the workhouse for carrying concealed weapons. Bergman looked sullen and throwing back his head put his hat on and started to leave the room. He was at once taken in charge and removed to jail.

On his arrival at the penitentiary Bergman was carefully searched. It is believed that if opportunity offers he will carry out his threat of suicide, and for that reason he will be closely watched and kept in close confinement for six months.

From the Moon to Iowa.

I believe it is now pretty generally admitted that aerolites or meteorites come from volcanoes on the moon. One of the most remarkable of these falls of stones from the upper region of the air occurred in May, 1879, the stones falling upon the farm of Mrs. C. H. Perry, of Emmett County, Iowa. Efforts were made to have the stone removed to the museum of the Davenport, Ia., Academy of Science, but as such a proceeding would entail an expense of something like $200 the mossbacks of that institution let the scheme fall through, the attempt to raise the money having resulted in flat failure. Finally a Mr. Berge, of Keokuk, made a trip to Emmett County for the porpose of inspecting the curiosity.

After giving it a thorough chemical examination he came to the conclusion that it was unlike anything in the aerolite line that had ever been attracted to our globe. By a fine system of chemical test he found that it was composed of earth, triolite, iron nickle, cobalt, gold, silica, magnesia, alumina, soda, lithia, and potassium. Berge bought the oddity off Mrs Perry for $160 and gave the tenant of the farm $50 more for his "right" and his help. It was removed to Keokuk and exhibited there for some time. At last the curators of the British Museum, who had learned of the odd combination of minerals in the stone's make-up, sent an agent to purchase it. After much bickering the royal institution gave Mr. Berge $6500 for his "moonstone." It weighed 431 pounds.

WALLER.

Mrs. McHenry and daughter, Ella went to Bloomsburg on Saturday.

Rev. J. G. Whitmire occupied the pulpit on Sunday for the first time in several weeks. He was taken sick while attending campmeeting and has just recovered sufficiently to begin his work again.

Mr. John Young has the sympathy of this entire neighborhood in his sore bereavements. Only two weeks ago his wife was laid to rest in the Waller cemetery and last week a little child followed in the sleep which knows no awakening to which we are all hastening.

Rev. S. I. Shortess an old veteran will take part in the soldiers grand review at Washington, and visit friends in Philadelphia and Baltimore by the way.

Mr. Charles Lemons buried a child at this place on Monday.

This little town does not seem to take a very active part in any of the great political demonstrations, that are so common at presidential elections, but if every place would give Cleveland as many votes proportionately, the other parties had better save their ammunition.

A Proof of Death.

If most people are afraid of anything it is of being buried alive. That cases do happen where it is difficult for the most experienced physicians to determine whether a person is really or only apparently dead, may be judged from the fact that at different times scientific associations and even governments have offered prizes for the discovery of some means by which it might at once be determined whether death had actually ensued or not. As late as 1678 the French Academy of Sciences offered a prize of 40,000 francs for a practical "death test." The professor who obtained the prize gives the following unique directions, which, if carried out to the letter, will prove conclusively whether or not life is extinct. Take the hand of the supposed dead person and hold it between yourself and lighted lamp. Extend the fingers so that each one touches his fellow. Then look at the space between them. If a scarlet red color appears where the fingers touch, life is not extinct, because the scarlet lines show that the blood is still circulating through the tissues, which have not yet congested.

If, on the other hand, the experiment show no red lines. life has indeed vanished and there is no further hope of reviving the "tabernacle of clay," or fears of burying it alive. It is said that the most extensive and thorough trials have established the truth of these observations.

Resolutions of Condolence.

Whereas it has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst our beloved and esteemed brother, Dr. T. C. McHenry, and while with obedient hearts we humbly submit to his inscrutable providences, we nevertheless sadly deplore the sudden stroke that has caused a vacancy in our lodge room, and that has covered the entire community with gloom. Be it therefore,

Resolved, That in his death, Lodge No. 746, I. O. of O. F., our order has lost an esteemed brother, a strong pillar, a useful member and an enthusiastic worker.

Resolved, That our community has been deprived of an eminent physician, a friend to the poor, and an enterprising and progressive citizen.

Resolved, that we extend to the family of the deceased, who have been bereft of a kind husband, a devoted father and a sympathetic protector, our heartfelt sympathy and commend them to the watchful care of Him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That our lodge room be draped with the usual insignia of mourning for a period of thirty days.

Resolved, That a copy of the resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, that they be published in the Benton Argus, the Columbian, Sentinel and Republican of Bloomsbuig, and that they be engrossed upon the minutes of this louge.

The Steam Laundry.

Everything is now in shape at Chamberlin's Steam Laundry on Centre street, and they are turning out some fine work. The clothes are wasned by steam and made thoroughly clean without the use of any material that rots the cloth. Special arrangements can be made for family washes, by the pound, when the ironing is done at home.

A New Summer Resort.

JUDGE RHONE'S PLAN TO CONVERT THE HUNTINGTON VALLEY INTO A SUMMER CITY.

Judge Rhone, ever alert to advance the material interests of Huntington Valley, has a project on foot to build a dam at high bridge, along the turnpike, and make an immense lake covering the land lying between that point and Town Line. This was originally a vast lake, the out-let furnishing the motive power for a grist mill in Hopkins glen which ground the whole product of the early Huntington settlers. The area that would be flooded is between two and three hundred acres, and is full of crystal springs, one having a discharge that would fill a two-inch pipe.

Judge Rhone's plan is to stock the lake with fish and sell the lots along the banks to people from the neighboring towns and cities who are in search of wholesome air and pure water. The proposed lake would be within three miles of Shickshinny and on the line of the projected electric railway to Harveyville. The land that will be flooded is too wet to be valuable for farming purposes and the farmers are ready to dispose of it at its actual value. The farm of Mr. J. D. Woodworth will be largely covered and parts of those adjoining.

County Surveyor Crockett made a survey of the property on Monday and will make an accurate estimate of the number of acres flooded and the size of the dam required.

Huntington Valley is an inviting spot for a summer resort and if Judge Rhone succeeds in his scheme it will make a boom in surrounding real estate. A summer population such as a lake of this kind would draw, would make a home market that would set the farmer on his high horse.—Shickshinny Echo.

They gave him welcome that was fairly unbounded in its kindly enthusiasm, and before the curtain had gone down on the first act they were convinced that he lost none of his former power, and had gained some. He was the same Frank Mayo they had seen before. But there were other improvements. The remarkable little drama "Davy Crockett," which displays the "simplest and purest affections in a chastely, heroic style of art', was given a superior production. The scenery was especially good, the costumes were attractive and the company, as a whole, was able and had been well trained to do the best that was in them. The general effect, for such a production, was strikingly impressive. The play is superior in some respects to anything of its kind offered from the stage.—St. Louis Republican.

Will appear at Bloomsburg Opera House' Thursday evening Sept. 29th.

The meeting of democratic societies at Scranton, Tuesday was a decided success, both as to numbers and enthusiasm. There were about one thousand delegates present, besides, about five hundred friends. Hon. Chauncey F. Black of York was re-elected president of the Societies, and J. D. Worman, secretary. The Bloomsburg Young Men's Democratic Club, was represented by W. B. Taylor, Freeze Quick and Wm. Rhodomoyer; Freeze Quick was placed on the Committee of Credentials, and Wm. B. Taylor, on permanent organization. J. H. Mercer County Chairman; L. Lowenberg and M. Ellenbogen of Bloomsburg were also in attendance. Hon. E. M. Tewksbury was the delegate from Catawissa township.

A FISHING PARTY.

On Tuesday morning a party of ten started up the canal on Dodson's house boat, their destination being Shickshinny, and their object being to fish for bass for a few days. The boat was comfortably fitted up, and contained all the necessaries of life, and some of the luxuries. The commissary department was stocked under the direction of J. D. White, one of the party. The others were J. K. Lockard, R. W. Oswald, J. R. Schuyler, C. H. Campbell, A. Bloom, J. A. Hess, J. H. Maize, C. B. Ohl.

A most enthusiastic audience greeted Frank Mayo at the California Theatre last evening to witness his manly impersonation of "Davy Crockett," the honest backwoodsman, a character created by Mr. Mayo many years ago, and one with which he has become so thoroughly identified as to have rendered it and him inseparable, so much so that the two will forever be linked together in the history of the drama and its actors.—San Jose paper.

THE FOUR CENTURIES

ADDRESS FOR COLUMBUS DAY.

PREPARED BY THE YOUTH'S COMPANION.

THE spectacle America presents this day is without precedent in history. From ocean to ocean—in city, village and countryside—the children of the states are marshaled and marching under the banner of the nation, and with them the people are gathering around the school house.

Men are recognizing today the most impressive anniversary since Rome celebrated her thousandth year—the 400th anniversary of the stepping of a hemisphere into the world's life; four completed centuries of a new social order; the celebration of liberty and enlightenment organized into a civilization.

And while during these hours the federal government of these United States strikes the keynote of this great American day that gives honor to the common American institution which unites us all, we assemble here that we, too, may exalt the free school that embodies the American principle of universal enlightenment and equality, the most characteristic product of the four centuries of American life.

Four hundred years ago this morning the Pinta's gun broke the silence and announced the discovery of this hemisphere.

It was a virgin world. Human life hitherto upon it had been without significance. In the Old World for thousands of years civilized men had been trying experiments in social order. They had been found wanting. But here was an untouched soil that lay ready for a new experiment in civilization. All things were ready. New forces had come to light full of overturning power in the Old World. In the New World they were to work together with a mighty harmony.

It was for Columbus, propelled by this fresh life, to reveal the land where these new forces were to be given space for development, and where the awaited trial of the new civilization was to be made.

Today we reach our most memorable milestone. We look backward and we look forward.

Backward we see the first mustering of modern ideas; their long conflict with Old World theories, which were also transported hither. We see stalwart men and brave women one moment on the shore, then disappearing in dim forests. We hear the ax. We see the flame of burning cabins and hear the cry of the savage. We see the never ceasing wagon trains always toiling westward. We behold log cabins becoming villages, then cities. We watch the growth of institutions out of little beginnings—schools becoming an educational system; meeting houses leading into organic Christianity; town meetings growing to political movements; county discussions developing federal governments.

We see hardy men with intense convictions grappling, struggling, often amid battle smoke, and some idea characteristic of the New World always triumphing. We see settlements knitting together into a nation with singleness of purpose. We note the birth of the modern system of industry and commerce and its striking forth into undreamed of wealth, making the millions members one of another as sentiment could never bind. And under it all, and through it all, we fasten on certain principles ever operating and regnant—the leadership of manhood; equal rights for every soul; universal enlightenment as the source of progress. These last are the principles that have shaped America; these principles are the true Americanism.

We look forward. We are conscious we are in a period of transition. Ideas in education, in political economy, in social science are undergoing revisions. There is a large uncertainty about the outcome. But faith in the underlying principles of Americanism and in God's destiny for the republic makes a firm ground of hope. The coming century promises to be more than ever the age of the people—an age that shall develop a greater care for the rights of the weak and make a more solid provision for the development of each individual by the education that meets his need.

As no prophet among our fathers on the 300th anniversary of America could have pictured what the new century would do, so no man can this day reach out and grasp the 100 years upon which the nation is now entering. On the victorious results of the completed centuries the principles of Americanism will build our fifth century. Its material progress is beyond our conception, but we may be sure that in the social relations of men with men the most triumphant gains are to be expected. America's fourth century has been glorious; America's fifth century must be made happy.

One institution more than another has wrought out the achievement of the past, and is today most trusted for the future. Our fathers in their wisdom knew that the foundations of liberty, fraternity and equality must be universal education. The free school therefore was conceived the cornerstone of the republic. Washington and Jefferson recognized that the education of citizens is not the prerogative of church or of other private interest; that while religious training belongs to the church, and while technical and higher culture may be given by private institutions, the training of citizens in the common knowledge and the common duties of citizenship belongs irrevocably to the state.

We therefore on this anniversary of America present the public school as the proudest expression of the principle of enlightenment which Columbus grasped by faith. We uplift the system of free and universal education as the master force which under God has been informing each of our generations with the peculiar truths of Americanism. America therefore gathers her sons around the school house today as the institution closest to the people, most characteristic of the people and fullest of hope for the people.

Today America's fifth century begins. The world's twentieth century will soon be here. To the thirteen millions now in the American schools the command of the coming years belongs. We, the youth of America, who today unite to march as one army under the sacred flag, understand our duty. We pledge ourselves that the flag shall not be stained, and that America shall mean equal opportunity and justice for every citizen and brotherhood for the world.

THE OFFICIAL PROGRAMME.

Prepared for the National Columbian Public School Celebration of Oct. 21.

IT IS now known to all readers that President Harrison has issued a proclamation naming Oct. 21 as the true anniversary of the discovery of America, and recommending its observance by suitable exercises in all the schools of the United States.

A uniform programme for every school in America, to be used on Columbus Day simultaneously with the dedicatory exercises of the World's Columbian exposition grounds in Chicago, will give an impressive unity to the popular celebration. Accordingly, when the superintendents of education last February accepted the plan for this national public school celebration, they instructed their executive committee to prepare an official programme of exercises for the day, uniform for every school.

The following programme has been prepared by the committee:

The schools should assemble at 9 a. m. in their various rooms. At 9:30 the detail of veterans is expected to arrive. It is to be met at the entrance of the yard by the color guard of pupils, escorted with dignity to the building and presented to the principal. The principal then gives the signal and the several teachers conduct their pupils to the yard, to drumbeat or other music, and arrange them in hollow square about the flag, the veterans and color guard taking places by the flag itself. The master of ceremonies then gives the command, "Attention!" and begins the exercises by reading the proclamation.

1. READING OF THE PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION. By the Master of Ceremonies.

At the close of the reading he announces: "In accordance with this recommendation by the president of the United States, and as a sign of our devotion to our country, let the flag of the nation be unfurled above this school."

2. RAISING OF THE FLAG. By the Veterans.

As the flag reaches the masthead the veterans will lead the assemblage in "Three Cheers for 'Old Glory.'"

3. SALUTE TO THE FLAG. By the Pupils.

At a signal from the principal the pupils, in ordered ranks, hands to the side, face the flag. Another signal is given: every pupil gives the flag the military salute—right hand lifted, palm downward, to a line with the forehead and close to it. Standing thus all repeat together slowly, "I pledge allegiance to my flag and the republic for which it stands; one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." At the words "to my flag" the right hand is extended gracefully, palm upward, toward the flag, and remains in this gesture till the end of the affirmation, whereupon all hands immediately drop to the side. Then, still standing, as the instruments strike a chord, all will sing "America"—"My country, 'tis of thee."

4. ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF GOD. Prayer or Scripture.

5. SONG OF COLUMBUS DAY. By Pupils and Audience.

Air—"Lyons."

Columbia, my land! all hail the glad day
When first to thy strand Hope pointed the way;
Hail him who thro' darkness first followed the Flame
That led where the Mayflower of Liberty came.

Dear Country, the star of the valiant and free!
Thy exiles afar are dreaming of thee.
No fields of the Earth so enchantingly shine,
No air breathes such incense, such music as thine.

Humanity's home! thy sheltering breast
Gives welcome and room to strangers oppress'd.
Pale children of Hunger and Hatred and Wrong
Find life in thy freedom and joy in thy song.

The fairest estate the lowly may hold,
Thy poor may grow great, thy feeble grow bold,
For worth is the watchword to noble degree,
And manhood is mighty where manhood is free.

O union of States and union of souls!
Thy promise awaits, thy future unfolds,
And earth from her twilight is hailing the sun
That rises where people and rulers are one.

A Forgotten Columbus Monument.

It is a mistake to suppose that there was, up to a short time ago, no monument to Columbus in the United States. There is a monumental shaft in Baltimore. It is obscurely placed and is inscribed "Chris. Columbus." It dates from 1784. It was erected by the French consul general, De Amamour, who, with some hundred or more French officers and soldiers, remained in Baltimore after the end of the Revolutionary war.

State News.

The former residence of the late A. H. Dill at Lewisburg and belonging to his estate was recently sold at public sale for $2,700. It is said the building cost Mr Dill at least $6,000

A corporation of capitalists has purchased the Price farm in Bensalem township, Bucks county, on which it is proposed to erect a large distillery to fight the Whiskey Trust. A capital of $2,000,000 is represented. A siding from the Pennsylvania Railroad has been surveyed and a wharf property on the river front adjoining the Price tract purchased.

While drilling for oil on the Jamison farm in Jimtown, west end of Crawford county, the drill struck a six foot vein of anthracite coal.

There is a neat little fortune of $10.000 awaiting some claimant who is supposed to be located somewhere in Pennsylvania. A man named James Stewart died in the poor house at Belfast, Ireland, and upon his person were found certificates of mining stock amounting to $10,000. It is believed that he came from Luzerne county and that he has relatives living.

Saturday next Nancy Barger, of Roland, Centre County, will celebrate her 100th birthday. Her friends have made arrangements to hold a public picnic in her honor. Mrs. Barger can remember of Washington's death and has a good recollection of every Presidential contest since 1801. She was present at the first two executions in Center county, those of "Negro Dan" and the famous "Mouls." Notwithstanding her having reached the centenarian mark she is as spry as most woman at fifty, managing her own farm and doing the most of her own work. Her youngest child is 58 years of age.

If three or four plague-stricken ships laden with hundreds of dirty immigrants were denied a landing at New York and sent back to where they came from at the company's expense this immigration business would be stopped for a while at least, and there would be some chance of keeping out the cholera—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Tired All the Time.

Is the complaint of many poor mortals who know not where to find relief. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses just those elements of strength which you so earnestly crave, it will build you up, give you an appetite, strengthen your stomach and nerves. Try it.

HOOD'S PILLS act specially upon the liver, rousing it from torpidity to its natural duties, cure constipation and assist digestion.

PERFUMES AND CREAMS.

THEY CAN BE MADE AT HOME IF YOU FOLLOW THESE DIRECTIONS.

Violet Water—Get a quantity of fresh picked sweet violets, take them to a druggist and get them weighed, put them into a large bottle and get him to give you the same weight in alcohol as you have of violets. Pour it over the violets and cork tightly. Shake every day for ten days, then add just as much water as you had alcohol. The next day strain and bottle for use.

Lavender Water—Put half a pound of fresh lavender leaves into a double boiler, pour over them half a pint of soft water, cover and simmer slowly one hour. Take off the fire and cool Add one pint and a half of alcohol, strain twice and bottle for use. Do not get the alcohol near the fire as it is inflammable. Glass stoppers should be used in the bottle.

Carrot Cream—Put one pound of fresh fried lard in a kettle, add one pint of hot water, set away to cool. Skim off the lard and put it in an oatmeal kettle, add half a pound of tried suet from a young beef. Peel and grate two large carrots and stir them into the suet. Cook slowly one hour, strain through double cheesecloth, then strain again, add a few drops of Bergamot-oil and dip in small dishes to remain. This cream is soothing and healing for chapped or calloused hands.

How Does This Strike You?

One of our exchanges whose experience tallies with that of other newspapers, puts it thus:

Running a newspaper requires capital just as surely as a locomotive does steam. The strides the newspaper makes depends entirely upon the support given, just as truly as the speed of the engine is regulated by the power applied. We are endeavoring to run a newsy paper, and have been eminently successful, but there are a number of delinquents that could help us out most substantially. Money, of course, is the root of all evil, and some of our subscribers seem to think a little might lead us astray. We assure you it will not. We will sacrifice the paper on which to give you a receipt, if that's any inducement. Call and see us. Among so many we are liable to forget your features."

IS TRADE A MISTAKE?

IF PROTECTIONISTS ARE RIGHT, COMMERCE IS A MISTAKE.

The Case of the Canadians Cited—They Flourish by Not Trading with Us, and We Flourish by Not Trading with Them—An Absurd Tariffite Argument.

Canadian protectionists are now taking their turn at statistics. In recent years they have been trying a high protective tariff, and they feel bound to vindicate its utility. At the same time they know the political value of reciprocity talk, and have been engaged in negotiations with the United States for a reciprocity treaty, but nothing has come of it. The two nations lying side by side refuse to trade with each other except under the severest restrictions.

Everybody is familiar with the claims of our own protectionists as to what this policy has done for us. They tell us that it has increased our wealth enormously, and has augmented the wages of our workingmen. At the same time this policy, they say, has not cost anybody anything. Although intended to put up prices and thereby enable the manufacturer to get better profits and at the same time pay better wages, it has resulted in putting down the prices of manufactured goods, which are really protected, and putting up the price of farm products, which are only nominally so. The result is happiness to everybody, without the cost of a cent to any. Protection has had a magic influence; it has enabled the manufacturer to take less for his goods, pay more for wages and cost of living, and still have more left. At all events, this is the fairy tale which they are telling to the voters of United States.

If the shutting of the Canadians out of our markets has done so much for us, one would expect that they had met with great disaster. Such is not the case, however, if we may trust the protectionist statistics on the other side of the line. They have been figuring on labor and wages, and they find that under protection wages in Canada have advanced some 15 or 16 per cent. Instead of suffering from being shut out of our markets they have offset it, and much more, by simply shutting us out of theirs. They flourish by not trading with us, and we flourish by not trading with them. There can be but one rational inference from these facts, if they are facts, and that is that commerce is a mistake, a mere device for losing money. Prosperity is found not in trading, but in not trading. The more we refuse to trade the more money we get, and the higher wages we are able and willing to pay. Why then trade at all?

It is true there are some facts which protectionists on both sides of the line invariably ignore. It is true that they invariably assume that whatever occurs under protection is caused by protection. In telling of increase of wages under high tariffs they suppress the fact that they have increased under low tariffs, and that in free trade England there has been a steady increase. In telling of the decline in the price of commodities they leave out of view the well known cause, the use of improved machinery. They do not tell us why high tariffs in France and Germany and Spain do not make wages higher than in England, where what is called free trade prevails. If protection is the cause of prosperity, we ought to find prosperity wherever there is protection, and no prosperity wherever protection is wanting.

If it is so disastrous to us to trade with Canada, or for Canada to trade with us, it is singular that the states of the Union have not been ruined by trading with one another. This is one of the paradoxes that protectionists have never been able to explain. Absolute free trade among the states and territories is guaranteed by the constitution, yet all flourish together, though not equally. Nor is the rate of wages uniform. With the same free trade at home, and the same protection from abroad, wages in different parts of the country refuse to keep a uniform level, but are regulated by supply and demand.

When the subject is considered in all its bearings we shall find that Mr. Stevenson has expressed the whole truth in one sentence, "Tariffs have nothing to do with wages, except to diminish their purchasing power."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

What the Force Bill Might Do.

The measure is not the outcome of ignorance or false theories of government, but of deliberate and rascally conspiracy to substitute force and fraud for free elections, to abolish real representative government and to make a narrow and greedy oligarchy of office-holders supreme arbiters of the nation's destiny. If the bill had been allowed to pass in the senate, Benjamin Harrison could easily re-elect himself president for life, and the usurpers in Washington could never be got rid of except by armed revolution.—St. Louis Republic.

Who Pays the Duty?

One of our exchanges tells us of an Irishman whose old mother abroad knit him several pairs of woolen socks, the cost of which was twenty cents a pair in Ireland. The poor fellow had to pay twenty-five cents per pair duty, and as he has been told the foreigner pays this duty he has written to McKinley to find out just whom he shall apply to in the old country for his money. We doubt if McKinley can answer this plain question.—Newport (R. I.) Herald.

Ergo, Vote for Cleveland.

No wonder people read Democratic more than Republican newspapers! The real question with the old soldiers this year is, "How shall we vote in order to get our pension money?" The government has recently defaulted in the payment of pensions, and unless an economical Democratic administration shall succeed to that of Harrison the government will be unable to pay its pensioners.—Sioux City (Ia.) Tribune.

In Memory of the Departed.

(Published by request.)

Sarah Ann Oman died February 26, 1892, aged 61 years, 11 month and 4 days, converted 38 years ago, married to William Oman 1852. Composed and written for the husband by W. A. Evert, Bloomsburg, Pa.

With winter and its stormy blasts
How many friends have fled,
And some who were so dear to us
Are now among the dead.

My darling wife so dear to me,
Was called away "at rest;"
Where soon I know the Lord will call
Me to that home so blest.

To trust in Jesus was her guide,
To do her Master's will;
And now she lives in heaven above,
Where she can love him still.

She led a constant Christian life,
And those who knew her well;
Would seek her for that good advice,
And then of Him she'd tell.

She put her trust all in the Lord,
And in him lived and died;
And when he thought it best for us,
He took her from our side.

Our home is sad and lonely now,
For there's her vacant chair;
For we who loved our mother dear,
Could always find her there.

When little children came to her,
She took them by the hand;
And in her mother way would talk
About the holy land.

From all her trials she has gone,
Gone to that world of light;
She'll sing and shout with him above,
Where all is love and right.

She has gone to meet our children,
Who were taken up before;
And with them she now is walking,
All along the golden shore.

He comes again our hearts to bind,
The bleeding soul to cure,
And with the treasures of his grace,
To help the humble poor.

Now our family, it is broken,
And our home is sad and drear;
But we'll place our trust in Jesus,
He I know our hearts will cheer.

When trouble like a glowing pall,
Has thrown its shade around;
A blighting sorrow on the heart
A resting place has found.

My feeble footsteps soon will fail,
And from this world I'll fly,
To join my wife and God above,
And dwell beyond the sky.

And now my day is almost gone,
My eyes are growing dim;
My trust is when I leave this land
I'll go and be with Him.

And now my pilgrimage on earth,
Has run its course, the best;
May I with joy, go enter in
And be with her, "at rest."

TOLEDO, O., Jan 10, 1887.

Messrs F. J. Cheney & Co.—Gentlemen:—I have been in the general practice of medicine for most 40 years, and would say that in all my practice and experience have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effects are wonderful, and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions.

Yours truly.

She Wouldn't Lift Her Veil.

From the Chicago Inter Ocean.

"I made the awful mistake of making love to my own wife one day last week," said W. T. Mason, as he drew a chair up to the charmed circle where sat the story tellers in the Lindell rotunda. "I had been down to Kankakee on a business trip and took the night train for Chicago, where I reside. The coach was chock-a-block, with the exception of one double seat, which was occupied by a stylish-looking woman, who sat at the window and had her veil down. I received permission to occupy the seat with her, and we were soon chatting pleasantly. I thought her voice sounded familiar, but fate had ordained that I should make an ass of myself. I tried to get her to put up her veil, but she objected that the cinders got into her eyes. To make a long story short, I struck up a desperate flirtation with her. She admitted that she was married, but said her husband was a graceless scamp who always flirting with other women and neglecting her. Of course I sympathized with her, and told her that a man who would neglect so charming a women ought to be kicked to death by a blind mule. Was I married? Certainly not. Well, we finaly reached Chicago, and I handed her into a cab. Then she lifted her veil. It was my wife! This story stops right here."

A NEW DELIVERY SCHEME.

NEW LETTER BOXES FOR EVERY HOUSE FOR THE COLLECTION AND DELIVERY OF LETTERS.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker has issued his expected order deputizing the postmasters of free-delivery cities, towns and rural communities to put up letter boxes, on the request of citizens, for the collection and delivery of mail at the house doors. The order, it is said, affects nearly three million residences to which the free-delivery service is already extended.

The canvass of models of boxes to be recommended has lasted over two years, and the recommended boxes have stood the actual experience. The carrier gains half an hour or more on each trip, from the fact that much time formerly consumed in waiting for people to come to doors to receive their mails is not all taken up in calling at houses where the automatic signal, seen from the sidewalk, indicates that mail is to be collected.

The boxes vary in prices from $1 to $2 and a given route is to be equipped when the Postmaster finds that two-thirds of the householders desire the new double service. The postoffice officials say that as no loss of time is involved to the carrier force, no extra carriers, except as the service naturally grows, are required; and if the saving of time on given routes is considerable enough, extra deliveries, always a necessity may be put on with the same force of carriers.

The boxes approved will be exhibited at postoffice by the postmaster, and all postoffice employes have been directed to facilitate their introduction. Housekeepers desiring to try the new mail collection and delivery scheme must select and purchase a box of one of the styles approved by the department.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical. Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa. 9 16-2t.

Ancient Bills of Fare.

The account—more frequently found in romances—of the marvellous feast often given to ruling powers of the olden times, are eagerly read by the young, and with great longings to see them repeated in the present time. Especially are they bewitching to the young housekeepers—who have visions of surprising their husbands with a bill of fare copied from ancient times. Yet they have no idea of what the peculiar dishes were composed.

A "young lady" writes us: "I have read so much of the wonderful feasts and banquets given in ancient times, the almost fabulous entertainments of the nobles and emperors of Greece and Rome, that I am curious to know something more definite about them. Do tell me, dear madam, if you can, how the dishes, which must have cost a small fortune, were prepared. Of what did they consist?

"I am young, expecting soon to go to housekeeping. I am fond of trying new things, and can afford a little extravagance to enable me to do so. It would be such a pleasure to surprise my husband by bringing him a dainty entertainment, entirely different from the common run of things.

You would indeed surprise your husband and guest, my dear child, with something "different from the common run of things," if we could give you such receipts; but few, if any, have been recorded, and none that you would willingly follow. Their banquets were wondersully lavish in the composition. Served in barbaric splendor, on polished gold set round with precious stones, yet there was no delicacy or refinement, either in the mode of preparing or arranging the food.—Mrs. Weary Hard Beecher October Godey's.

CAMPAIGN SONGS.

Some Efforts in the New York World's Prize Competition.

[Air—"Hold the Fort."]

Ho, my comrades, forth to battle,
Let our swords be facts;
Put it plain before the people;
Tariff is a tax!

CHORUS.

Cleve and Steve reform the tariff,
Let high taxes fall,
Open markets for our staples,
Equal rights to all!

See the "mitey" foe advancing,
Wearing Grandpa's hat;
On his banner, borne so proudly,
Lo, a Tribune rat!

Pour your shot into their ramparts,
Force and ballot bill;
Don't forget the billion congress,
Charge them with a will!

Democracy's Jubilee Day.

[Air—"Rosin the Bow."]

Come, rally for freedom and country,
Come, marshal your clan for the fray,
And hasten the glorious dawning
Of Democracy's jubilee day.
Arise in your might, sound the slogan;
Your armor gird on, and achieve
A victory over greed and corruption,
As we boom it for Cleve and for Steve.

With "tariff reform" for our motto
McKinley must step to the rear,
And the force bill we'll bury so deeply
Not even its ghost will appear.
We'll throttle monopoly's cobra,
The oppressed from the dust we'll retrieve,
And we'll cry, Show fair play to the workman!
As we boom it for Cleve and for Steve.

Columbia, dear, thou wert wrested
From the grasp of a tyrannous hand
By the blood of the heroes who saved thee—
Swear, no serf shall pollute thy fair land.
Come, rally from city and hamlet,
East, west, north, and believe
That November will bring glad fruition
If we boom it for Cleve and for Steve.

"Voice of the People."

[Air—"Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay."]

Come, ye men of mind and loom,
Merchant from your counting room,
Farmer from your land of bloom,
Vote the grand old party's doom—
Party of the iron kings,
Hessian thugs and hirelings,
Crafty, scheming bulls and bears,
Gamblers in our wealth and wares.

CHORUS.

Down with Plutocracy,
Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay;
Down with Autocracy,
Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay;
Down with Hypocrisy,
Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay;
Forward Democracy,
Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay.

Lordly castle on the hill
Where the master rules at will,
Starving workmen in the mill,
Wages cut despite their will,
Tradesmen with an empty till,
All through cursed tariff bill,
Never passed by people's will,
Yet they have to foot the bill.

Bloody shirt no more shall wave
O'er a brother's lowly grave;
Bury deep the gory shirt,
Tender feelings it has hurt;
Sister states must have their rights,
Union, home rule, sovereign rights;
Rich and poor shall equal stand
On this fair and favored land.

Meet the Tories at the polls
When November's drumbeat rolls,
Rolls the knell of tariff tolls,
Federal bayonets at the polls.
Rout them, Adlai, branch and root,
Bag and baggage with their loot,
Give them Grover Cleveland's boot,
Make them from the White House scoot!

Democrats United, Republicans Divided.

There is hardly a state in the Union in which the Republicans are not divided into factions whose aim is to kill each other politically and lay out the presidential candidate stiff and cold on election day. The outlook for the Democracy, on the other hand, is becoming more encouraging every day. All influences are solidly united for Cleveland and Stevenson, and are working together harmoniously and with enthusiasm for victory.—Syracuse Courier.

The Effect of the Tariff.

All that the tariff does is to tax the people generally for the benefit of Carnegie and Phipps. What caused the riot was the greed of these millionaires endeavoring to keep this tax entire in their own pockets. It really does not make much difference to us here in New England what becomes of the tax which we pay, but there are very few of our people who have not learned what the effect of the tariff is in the iron business.—Boston Post.

Even Chance in New Hampshire.

And what of New Hampshire? All sides admit that it is a "close state." Republicans class it as a "sure Republican state." But we think that Democrats can this year claim that it is at least a "doubtful state," with an even chance that it may be added to the Democratic column after the November election. Such at least is the expression of many of our shrewdest Democratic politicians.—Keene (N. H.) Cheshire Republican.

New York Is Not Doubtful.

New York is not a doubtful state this year. There is no state of the east where the Harrison force bill will damage the Republican party so much as the one of which the commercial metropolis of the country is a part. Harrison's administration has given more unrest and disquiet to the great legitimate business interests of the east than any other in our history.—St. Louis Republic.

Unprotected Workingmen Fare Best.

When the highly colored stories about the manner in which the protected workingmen in this state live are sifted down to the truth it will be found that as a general thing they are not housed so comfortably nor fed so well as those in the unprotected industries. The average wage rate of the protected people is not so high either as the average of the unprotected men.—Harrisburg Patriot.

Brains versus Wind.

Tom Reed, the whilom czar of the house of representatives, occasionally refers to Grover Cleveland as the "Stuffed Prophet," in line with a large number of other vulgar and vicious minded partisans. Reed and Cleveland in physical makeup are not unlike, but the difference is that Cleveland is stuffed with brains and Reed is stuffed with wind.—Saginaw (Mich.) News.

WORDS OF CHEER.

The Democratic National Committee has sent out this address:

To the People of the United States:

The Democratic National Committee congratulates the country on the result of the recent State election in Maine, Vermont and Arkansas.

In Arkansas the combined opposition after so many extravagant claims fell short by over 30,000 of the vote of the Democracy alone. This has brought dismay to the combination in the South and to its manipulators in the North.

In Maine and Vermont the contest was conducted distinctly on national issues.

The Republican managers appealed for votes in those States on the ground that "the size of the pluralities would exert a great moral influence on the campaign in other States," and that the poll would be "practically our vote for President" Similar appeals summoned to their aid all the potent resources of their national organization, with its exhaustless treasury and its splendid equipment of orators of national fame.

With every favoring force at their command, except public opinion, with no organizations opposed, save those made up within the States by a minority party which has been out of power for a generation, and which was unaided from without, the campaign of our adversaries for a triumphant test vote in these States, so carefully planned and so thoroughly and forcibly executed, has ended in conspicuous disaster.

Our friends everywhere are entitled to take fresh courage from these results.

They mean that the strong tendency of public sentiment is with the democracy, and that the people ot the country are prepared to enforce, rather than reverse, the verdict which they rendered in 1890.

Edison's Big Fee.

From the New York Sun.

It is not generally known that Edison received in one instance a fee of $40,000 for his opinion as an electrical expert. He was employed by the company organized to bore the Niagara power tunnel to examine the ground, study conditions and plans and give an opinion as to the feasibility and practicability of the work. He received the fee named. Other experts from various parts of the world were also consulted, and there was concentrated upon the plans an amount of expert knowledge such as has rarely been invoked for any one undertaking.

Senator Hill Speaks.

"I WAS A DEMOCRAT BEFORE THE CHICAGO CONVENTION, AND I AM A DEMOCRAT STILL."

There was a great outpouring of the Democracy at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn on Monday night to hear Senator David B. Hill.

Senator Hill said in part: "I am reminded of the fact that it was in this edifice, upon a memorable occasion in 1885, that I had the honor of expressing to the intrepid Democracy of Kings county the sentiment, I am a Democrat, and under the existing political situation I know of no more appropriate place or presence than here to declare that I was a Democrat before the Chicago convention and I am a Democrat still.

"The national Democratic convention of 1892 has passed into history with its record, its triumphs and its disappointments. The wisdom of its action is not now to be questioned. It was the court of last resort established by party usage as the final arbiter to determine the conflicting interests and claims of candidates, states and sections, and its decision will be accepted with loyal acquiesence by every true and patriotic Democrat who recognizes the necessity of party organization and discipline, and respects the obligations which he assumes in its membership.

FACTIONAL APPEALS SHOULD CEASE.

"From this time forward imperative duties are imposed upon us. Factional appeals should now cease, the spirit of resentment should be abandoned, state pride should be subordinated to the general good. Real or fancied grievances should be dismissed, personal ambitions should be sacrificed and individual disappointment should be forgotten in this great emergency which demands for us all the exhibition of widespread and lofty party patriotism. Permit me to repeat what I had the honor of expressing to the Tammany society on July last, before the echoes of our national convention had scarcely died away, as follows:

"Our course at the present time is plain. In the approaching struggle the Democracy of New York should present a solid front to the common enemy. Loyalty to cardinal Democratic principles and the regularly nominated candidates is the supreme duty of the hour!

"I reiterate those sentiments now. The Democratic position is a safe, logical, conservative and just position. No tariffs except 'for the purposes of revenue only' and then limited to the honestly and economically administered is a doctrine which appeals to the good sense and sound judgment of every honest and thoughtful man. With the constantly increasing expenses of the government and the enormous amount of money annually augmenting received by the growing pension list, these tariffs which must necessarily be exacting to meet these expenditures will be for many years to come amply sufficient to afford incidentally all the protection which the most ardent advocate of the system can reasonable ask. More than this ought not to concede to any body.

"President Harrison in his ingenious letter of acceptance endeavors to place our party in a false attitude by calling attention to the fact that while our platform in 1884, readopted in 1888, contained an express plank upon this question of the equalization of wages, yet it was omitted in 1892, and asserts that we have changed our position. I beg to differ with him. There has been no change. It is not always practicable to place in a platform the details of the proposed legislation. The platforms of 1884-88 were elaborate and lengthy and it was desirable to simplify them. General principles were stated in 1892 rather than particulars as in 1884.

TARIFF POLICY OF THE DEMOCRACY.

"There is a conflict between them. There was no necessity for the repetition of plank, as the party's position upon it had been evidenced by the Mills bill, which had not been passed before the national conventions of 1884 and 1888 were held. Parties are to be judged as much by their records as their platform. We stand not only upon our platform of 1892, but upon the Mills bill, which was the latest general Democratic legislation upon the tariff subject. The bill was as good an exposition of our principles as any elaborate platform could possibly be. If I were asked to define as concisely as possible the whole Democratic policy I should state it substantially as follows: We favor a tariff for revenue only limited to the necessities of the government, encnomically administered and so adjusted in its application as far as practicable, as to prevent unequal burdens, encourage productive industries at home and afford just compensation to labor but not to create or foster monopolies.

"These are the cardinal principles upon which the details of all tariff legislation should be based. I said in the campaign of 1888 in my opening speech at the Academy of Music in New York city, that if I believed that the Democratic party

FAVORED ABSOLUTE FREE TRADE.

I should not advocate its cause, and I repeat the statement here to night. I have read with care all the arguments urged by the two very able apostles of protection. Governor McKinley and Senator Aldrich, but I fail to discover that they present a single tenable ground upon which protection, pure and simple, can be constitutionally defended. I insist that neither the Democratic party nor I have changed our position upon this question, but that we stand where we have ever stood.

"Tariff reform does not mean free trade. Our opponents misrepresent our position now as they have ever done since the famous tariff message of 1887. In that historic message our candidate expressly repudiated the suggestion that he was entering upon any crusade of free trade. He did not demand that our tariff laws should be wiped out of existence. There is no satisfactory evidence that the McKinley bill has increased our prosperity in any degree, or advanced the wages of a single workingman. It is undoubtedly true that in this state the aggregate amount of all wages paid the year after its passage may have been greater than the aggregate amount paid the year preceding, but that does not prove an increase in the rate of wages paid and only shows that some new industries have been established or additional men employed in others.

WAGES UNDER THE M'KINLEY BILL.

"And it does not appear that such increase has been any more than the usual natural increase occasioned by the steady growth of the state. It may possibly also be true that there have been a few less strikes during the past two years than during the preceding two years, but this may be attributed to the moderation and good judgment of our labor organizations rather than to the effect of any tariff law. Iknow this much, that the Democratic partly will be entirely content to let every workingman whose wages have been increased since the passage of the McKinley bill to vote the republican ticket, if our opponents will consent that all those whose wages have not been increased shall vote the Democratic ticket, and upon that basis we will carry the country by a million majority.

"We should not, however, permit our position to be misunderstood. We are not seeking power on the "calamity" issue, but with all good citizens we rejoice in the prosperity of the country and trust that it may continue, but we insist that the country has been prosperous not because of the McKinley law but in spite of it. The plain truth is that this policy of protection cannot much longer stand against the tremendous for its abandonment. The cause of industrial emancipation is pushing on.

There is another issue in this campaign of equal, if not greater, importance than the tariff, which effects the rights and liberty of every citizen. The Republican party seems to be irrevocably committed to the passage of the federal elections bill, generally known as the "Force bill," and although it must be evident to the most patriotic and thoughtful members of that organization, that it is a piece of political foolishness only equalled by its mendacity, there has appeared for them no escape from its advocacy.

"It is an impeachment of the good sense of the Republican leaders that they should press the consideration of so offensive and unwise a measure at this or any other time, especially in view of the fact, now apparent to every one that it absolutely prevents their party receiving a single electoral vote in a third of the states of the union, and although as partisans we rejoice at their folly, yet as citizens, we deplore their attack upon the free institutions of our country, never before imperilled. The bill has been well described as a "menace to liberty"—the liberty of the north as well as the south, the liberty of the black as well as the white, the liberty of every citizen, no matter to what party he may happen to belong.

PURPOSE OF THE FORCE BILL.

"It is conceded that the measure is without precedent in the history of the country. For over a hundred years the government had been successfully conducted, yet no such measure as this had ever been proposed. The Republican party in the days of its greatest success and glory had never ventured to suggest a scheme of this kind to perpetuate its power. In those days of its prestige and honor, under honest leadership and with patriotic methods, it appealed to the intelligence, loyalty and emotions of its followers to sustain its supremacy, but not to fraud, force, federal bayonets or arbitrary procedures against its opponents.

"I have not time to-night to enter into any elaborate presentation of the details of this bill. It is sufficient for us to know that the only purpose of the measure is to control for partisan advantage our elections, state and federal. The chief supervisors are authorized to employ whatever United States troops they may deem necessary at the polls or elsewhere for the purpose of carrying the law into effect. The homes of citizens may be ruthlessly invaded and swarms of officials, strangers to the people of the locality, may be employed, arbitrary arrests without warrant may follow, old men may be upon technical charges to be rated under this law; the decisions of state and local courts may be set aside, federal officials are to take part in the count and may handle the ballots, and a reign of terror may be instituted whereby the legitimate and honest electors may be intimidated by a well concerted and obnoxious display of govermental power.

This is an epitome of what may be attempted, and accomplished under the Davenport scheme to promote the "purity of the ballot box" in the several states of the union The law would be expensive in its operation, dangerous in its enforcement, and is of doubtful constitutionally. It would drag judges into politics, degrade the army, weaken respect for federal authorities, provoke conflicts between races as well as between the people and the military and the present era of conciliation and good feeling would be superceded by the prevalence of a spirit of bitterness and hate.

"The bill is a desperate attempt to prop up the failing fortunes of a once great political party; it was conceived in animosity, is urged from the narrowest and worst of motives, is unworthy a place among the

STATUTES OF THE AMERICAN REPUBLIC.

The Democratic party desires a free, honest and fair election everywhere. It desires them not merely because it would inure to its benefit, but upon the unselfish and high ground that they are essential to the preservation of our free institutions. Our party has suffered much in the past from the corrupt and tyrannical methods of our adversaries.

The Republican party is the party of wealth, plutocracy, or corporate influence and of protected monopolies. Ours is a party of the plain people, the men of moderate means, the bone and sinew of the country. We have neither the disposition nor the means to corrupt our elections, and our party has been foremost in all the laudable efforts of recent years to place upon our statute books those reform election laws under which corruption, bribery, and intimidation are rendered difficult if not impossible. There has been no such condition of affairs at the South as to justify the enactment of the Davenport measure. It is true that the colored people in large numbers there are but this affords no sufficient reason for taking away from them or from us the control of their or our elections The colored people were not freed from slavery to become the slaves of the Republican party. The South is loyal, honest and capable, and if permitted, as it should be, it will work out its social and other problems in its own way without injury to the colored race, injustice to the North or to the Republican party or danger to the elective franchise.

"In any event the majority of the American people will never approve a measure which threatens their liberties, legalizes unfairness and absolutely guarantees partisan victories to the unscrupulous party that dares to enact it.

"Fellow citizens, I need not urge you to the performance of your full share in this campaign. Kings county was never known to falter in its duty. The interest involved demands the greatest sacrifices and our highest and best efforts. It is the welfare of the old Democratic party which we all love so well which is at stake. I plead not for individuals but for the cause. In a great contest like this men are nothing

BUT PRINCIPLES ARE EVERYTHING.

"Our candidates represent our principles and our principles cannot prevail without the election of our candidates. The contest may be a severe one, but so much more glorious will be the victory if we win. You need have no uneasiness—the old guard will do its duty. Look out for the raw recruits. I believe that a large majority of the people of this country are convinced of the rightfulness of Democratic principles and want them to prevail. But the election will not win itself and there must be complete organization. I repeat the injunction I uttered before the state Democratic convention at Albany in February last. It is our duty to organize, organize, organize.

"With this motto inscribed upon our banner: 'Public Office is a public Trust,' supplemented by the other sentiments which I have endeavored to present to you to-night, no public taxation for private purposes, and no force bill, let us close up our ranks and buckle on our armor for the fight, with the determination to do all in our power for the triumph of our party and the election of our honored standard bearers—Cleveland and Stevenson.

THE BALLOT CHANGED.

IT WILL BE UNLIKE THE ONE AT FIRST INTENDED.

The Secretary of State upon advice of the Attorney General, based upon questions raised and suggestions made by Republican State Chairman Reeder has decided to change the form of "official ballot" sometime ago agreed upon by him and which county commissioners and others were directed to follow. As originally prepared by the Secretary of State, the ballot was made with all the Republican nominees in one column, the Democratic nominees in another and so on and a single cross mark (X) opposite the party name would stand to indicate a vote for the entire party ticket.

Instead of this under the new decision of the Attorney-General the candidates will be arranged in groups the electors, congress at large and supreme judge comprising one, candidates for Congress, Senate, members of Assembly and judges each constituting a group and a county ticket making up the final group. Therefore to vote a full party ticket it will be necessary to make a cross mark at each group instead of a single cross mark at the head ot the ticket. The ballot will be printed with all the Republicans in one, the first, column, and all Democrats in the next as in the original form sent out. The blank spaces will be left in the last column of the ballot.

FLOWER PREDICTS VICTORY.

NEW YORK'S GOVERNOR SAYS CLEVELAND WILL HAVE 50 000 MAJORITY IN THAT STATE.

Monday Governor Flower called at the Democratic national headquarters. As usual, when he makes such calls, the governor left his check for a comfortable amount. Before leaving headquarters the governor said. "The election in Maine and Vermont have given me much encouragement. They show a remarkable apathy among Republicans toward the campaign. If such apathy is as prevalent throughout the country as it was in those two states Democratic success is assured. New York will go for Cleveland by 50,000.

"I have been in pretty much all sections of the state during the last six weeks, and I find the lukewarmness among Republicans that was displayed in Maine and Vermont. In the strong Republican counties this was particularly manifest. It looks as though the Democratic victories of 1890 and 1891 would be repeated this year. There are no diversions among the Democrats of New York, We are all united and earnest for success.

The National Battle.

The finger-board State contests are now over. and there will be no further danger-signal to either party from local elections until the great national battle shall be fought in Nouember.

The September elections have all been disappointing to the friends of Harrison. While they are not all decisive, it is conceded that they have given fresh inspiration and increased confidence to the Democrats and like depression to the Republicans.

Arkansas not only proved her devotion to the party and Cleveland by electing the Democratic ticket by a large majority over the combined opposition vote, but her verdict has greatly steadied North Carolina, Alabama and Virginia, and Mr. Halstead in his view of the situation for the New York, London and Paris Herald frankly concedes the solid South to Cleveland. West Virginia is admittedly debatable, but it is likely to go either way with the tide and thus not be a factor in the contest.

The falling off of fully one-third the Republican majority in Vermont and Maine, after both sides had made exhaustive efforts to poll their full vote, is significant as indicating indifference on the part of a large class of Republican voters. That is always a bad indication for any party on the threshold of a great national battle, and the temper of Vermont and Maine is likely to be felt in all sections of the Union.

New York is now accepted by both sides as the storm centre of the conflict. The party that carries New York may not need it to elect its candidate for President, but the party that loses it will lose the battle.

The general situation as presented to-day at the close of the preliminary State elections, leaves the national battle fairly involved in doubt, with the odds decidedly in favor of Cleveland's success.—Times.

Stevenson as a Campaigner.

The activity and ability shown by General Stevenson thus far in the campaign demonstrates that he is one of the most effective campaigners in the country, and for that reason a vice presidential candidate who brings to the ticket an unusual degree of assistance. Not only are his political utterances judicious and effective campaign arguments in which the Republican press practically confesses itself unable to discover flaws, but he possesses that happy faculty of pleasing audiences wherever he speaks and impressing the people with his genial, hearty nature.

A thoroughgoing partisan and an uncompromising Democrat, the candidate for vice president is above all a whole souled, frank and good natured citizen, the warmth of whose nature and affability of whose manner combine to make him popular with the people. It rarely happens that a man can say as much and talk as constantly as General Stevenson does without making mistakes which can be used against him, but the tall statesman from Illinois has shown himself to be the master of tact as well as of oratory.—Omaha World-Herald.

A "Peculiarly Interesting" Organization.

General Clarkson, who was once chairman and still retains some titular dignities, says in one of his circular letters, "private and confidential," that "a peculiarly interesting form of organzation would be to organize into Republican clubs all the workers employed in new industries which have been established under the workings of the McKinley bill." The general is right. Nothing would be more peculiarly interesting than such organization. The Republicans of Michigan would be delighted to carry out the brilliant suggestion and are only deterred by a lack of material. The voters to be caught by this dazzling campaign scheme are not to be found in these parts, but when they do put in an appearance the general can rest assured that his suggestion will be carried into practical execution. —Detroit Free Press.

Specious Reciprocity.

Democrats welcome reciprocity wherever it removes any needless restrictions upon commerce. They denounce McKinley reciprocity because while keeping the word of promise to the ear it breaks it to the hope; because it is with countries with which we have little trade; because it lowers prices for foreigners only and not for our own people; because its main purpose is to distract attention from the exactions of a robber tariff. The whole increase of our trade to the Latin American countries under reciprocity, even if the goods had cost us nothing, would pay the duty on tin plate for only eight months. These are the reasons that McKinley reciprocity is pronounced a sham.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A "Double Ended" Tariff.

When the protectionist organs declare that the McKinley tariff has not advanced prices they wish to be distinctly understood that it has advanced them for all producers or manufacturers who have been voting the Republican ticket in the belief that the policy of the party would enable them to get better prices for their products and wares. It is for this reason that the same organs which tell the farmer that the imposition of a duty on what he buys has really lowered the price and was intended to do so: has raised the price of what he produces and was put on for that purpose. It is a great thing, this tariff, and greatest of all in its double endedness, so to speak. —Detroit Free Press.

Governor McKinley Will Please Explain.

When Governor McKinley comes to New Haven to open the Republican campaign we hope he will explain more fully than he has yet done how it is that the foreigners pay our taxes. Many thousand dollars' worth of our government bonds are held abroad. A lucid explanation of how those foreign bondholders can be compelled or coaxed to pay the interest on the bonds in their possession would be a valuable contribution to the science of political economy. To borrow money from a man and then make him pay the interest and perhaps the principal is excessively clever.—New Haven Evening Register.

The Free Trade Cry.

The Republicans propose to obtain power to continue the robber tariff by impressing the public mind with the falsehood that tariff reform will be followed by the ruin of industries and the reduction of wages, and their chief method of warfare is the cry of free trade. No party favors free trade; tariff reform is not free trade, but it is the happy medium between no protection and Republican fraud protection. Sooner or later the people will demand relief from the present unjust tariff law, and the year 1892 is none too soon to make and enforce the demand.—Oshkosh (Wis.) Times.

Startling Figures, but Correct Ones.

After paying debts contracted by the last Republican congress, amounting to $50,000,000, the Democratic congress, now about to adjourn, has saved several million dollars to the taxpayers of the country. Had it not been for these Republican debts it may be stated that the Democratic congress would have so administered the government as to show a clear saving, over the cost of Republican rule, of between $55,000,000 and $65,000,000.—Raleigh State Chronicle.

What the Force Bill Means.

It is designed to overthrow popular elections in the south. It is meant to have Davenport and a gang of negro supervisors do the "electing." Under the bill just as many Republican members of congress would be selected by Mr. Davenport as the necessities of the times demanded, and congress would then be ready to respond to any requisition for more subsidies and bounties for our infant industries.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Wonder of Alaska.

A WALL OF BLUE ICE A MILE LONG AND FOUR HUNDRED FEET WIDE.

From Scribner's.

The Muir glacier, which is the great wonder of Alaska, was doubtless discovered by Vancouver in 1793, but Professor John Muir was the first to describe it. Muir Inlet, at the head of glacier bay, is the termination of this great "river of ice." The wall of blue ice is there a mile long and about four hundred feet high, says an exchange.

It is worn into towers, castles and caverns and is continually discharging fragments from the size of a paving stone to that of Cologne Cathedral. These falling into the sea cast up the spray for hundreds of feet into the air and send forth waves which dash upon the shores and echo like thunder among the mountains. The Muir glacier is really a sea of ice, with numerous branches in the valley, any one of which is as large as the Gomar of Aletsch glacier of Switzerland.

It is, according to Nr. S P. Baldwin, a recent visitor, as large as all the Alpine glaciers in one, being 1,200 square miles in area. The ice is 1,000 feet thick at the mouth in Muir Inlet, and the glacier is estimated to comprise as much water as Lake Erie.

It discharges 77,000,000,000 cubic feet of ice as icebergs and 175,000,000,000 feet of water by melting every year. The centre of the glacier, where the motion is quickest, is so rough and broken into crevasses that it is considered impassable. The eastern half, however, can be traveled as far as the neve.

Professor Wright has found the motion at the centre to be as much as 65 feet a day, whereas that of the Alpine glaciers is only 33 inches or so. As much as 90 feet a day has been found in the case of a Greenland glacier The Muir glacier once extended much farther into the bay, and is now receding every year, while the sources of the ice supply are falling.

THE SHADOW OF DEATH.

CHOLERA'S DEAD IN EUROPE LAST WEEK NUMBERS ABOUT FIFTEEN THOUSAND PERSONS.

London, Sept. 20—The Shadow of death is lifting, for cholera's death this week do not number more than 15,000 if the returns are approximately true. Hamburg's total death roll has amounted to about 7,000, and the plague has renewed in some degree its intensity in that stricken city. In Russia, however, there has been marked improvement, and the disease is rapidly disappearing in many places in Western Europe where it threatened to become a great scourge. Paris continues to be a danger point, although the daily reports given out by the authorities indicate that the pestilence is subsiding.

The Ice Cart.

R. W. Jennings, of Chicago, a life long republican in referring to the excuses made by the republican leaders on account of the greatly reduced majority in Maine and Vermont, says as follows.

"It is a great deal more amusing than original to hear the office holders, led by Secretary Foster, giving their version of the reverse in Maine. Mr. Foster says Republican voters down there didn't understand the new-fangled way of voting,

I heard him say in a speech once that the Republican party was the party of intelligence. Can it be that they are degenerating? How dreadful! No, Mr. Foster, you forget that when the mongrel office holders from the South forced the Republican party to turn down Mr. Blaine. they turned down tens of thousand of Republicans with him.

I inclose a copy of a circular that was distributed at the Republican funeral, otherwise called a ratification, that was held at the Auditorium in Chicago just after Mr. Harrison's nomination. It was distributed by Mr. Blaine's loyal friends. The Chicago Tribune said editorially that we were too hasty and that if we had waited thirty days we would not have done as we did.

Well, it is not the first time the Tribune has been mistaken, for twice thirty days have elapsed and the feeling only grows the stronger out this way. The World's Western Campaign Fund is a capital idea. How hypocritical it sounds from a party that fosters a Quay harbors a Platt and rewards a Raum, calling it a corruption fund!"

The circular referred to was signed by Mr. Jennings and a number of Blaine Republicans. Its conclusion was as follows:

As was predicted, the "harmony" cry is now in full blast. Let the answer of self-respecting Republicans be: "The office-holders have nominated this man; let the office-holders elect him." Better a thousand times better, elect a Democrat than to stultify yourself. We ask you for your co-operation. Fifty men have signed a roll not to vote for Harrisou. They have been life-long Republicans. Fifty thosand Republicans in Illinois alone feel like this fifty. Let us join hands, get together and organize. We need not vote the democratic ticket. We can refrain altogether or vote some other way. But do not reward political ingratitude, duplicity and canting hypocrisy. We invite suggestions and correspondence.

The Nice Fat Profit on Armor Plate.

From the Erie Herald.

One of the Western lawyers from St. Paul, retained by the workingmen of that section to assist in defense of the Homestead men awaiting trial, figures out that the cost of the armor plate turned out at Homestead for the government is only $40 a ton, whereas the government pays $600 a ton for it, the contract being for 6,000 tons, and at that rate and for that amount, Mr. W. W. Erwin, Western lawyer referred to, figures out a profit of $3,500,000 on this one contract to the Carnegies. The refusal of Mr. Frick to answer the questions put to him by the Congressional committee as to the cost of production at the Homestead works of course gives grounds for crediting the loose statement of Mr. Erwin, Possibly the armor plate does not cost more than $40 a ton, counting labor and material, but the estimate does not take in the cost of the armor plate mill necessary for its production, which was very heavy. The agitation of these enormous profits at the West in the protected industries, and especially on government work, will probably result in a searching investigation by the next Congress. The 6,000-ton contract was awarded the Carnegies without advertisment or competition.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19, 1892.

Washington has never attempted to entertain so large a crowd as the one now here in attendance upon the National Encampment of the G. A. R., but it is doing it well and in the main satisfactorily, although there are some complaints of over charging on the part of restaurant keepers. The city is handsomely decorated and more profusely than ever before. Mr. Harrison was kept away by the illness of Mrs. Harrison and his place is to be taken on the programme by Mr. Morton, who, by the way, never smelt gunpowder in battle, having been busy during the entire war in his New York bank amassing his fortune. Of course this has caused some good natured chafing among the old soldiers, but they are here for a good time and are apparently having it.

One year ago, when Washington was selected as the city to entertain the encampment, many prominent local democrats feared that it would be used by the republicans for political purposes, and for that reason declined for a time to take any part in making preparations for it; but they were assured that there was to be no politics in it, and accepting that assurance they allowed themselves to be on the citizens' committee and went to work with a will, and it is no exaggeration to say that the great success of the encampment is very largely due to the work of these democrats and to the money contributed by themselves and their democratic friends.

But the old soldiers had hardly began to arrive in large numbers before these democrats learned that just as they had at first feared the encampment was to be used to help the republican party. No blame for this can be attached to the republican members of the citizens' committee: they have kept their promise and confined themselves to look after the comfort of the city's guests in a manner that is highly creditable to them, but Congressmen and officials high up in the administration, aided by the republican National committee have been and are now hard at work trying to prejudice democratic members of of the G. A. R. against Mr. Cleveland. To accomplish this purpose thousands of copies of a pamphlet containing garbled extracts from Mr. Cleveland's Pension veto messages, are being slyly circulated among them, and a large number of members of the G. A. R., some of them said to be in the pay of the National Republican committee, are continually harping on the same subject. In addition, there are a number of republican Senators and Representatives, chief among them being Senator Proctor of Vermont, who was dug out of obscurity and put at the head of the War Department by Mr. Harrison, who are openly shouting about "Cleveland's dislike for the old soldiers," and doing their level best to create a prejudice against Mr. Cleveland. It is a little short of disgusting that the encampment, which should be a pleasant reunion of the men who served in the army together, should be used, and unfairly used, by politicans to further their own ends. It is a foul blot upon what would otherwise be a very enjoyable affair, and it is not likely to benefit those who are engaged in it.

Secretary Charles Foster is very much opposed to prohibiting immigration by Presidential proclamation, notwithsranding the opinion of the Attorney General that it can be done legally. The steamship companies have all promised not to bring steerage passengers from Europe as long as there is danger from cholera. That puts a stop to immigration. It also prevents a lot of Americans now in Europe who are unable to pay more than steerage passage returning home. It seems hard to shut out our own citizens because they are not able to pay cabin passage, and treasury officials are trying to study up some plan that will be just without being dangerous. Several of the steamship companies have offered to allow bona fide American citizens now in Europe and unable to pay more to come home as second class passengers on their return steerage tickets; but the officials are little afraid to give their consent to this plan as it would be almost certain to be abused. Something has got to be done, as demands have already been made by foreign authorities to know if these Americans are to be left over there as paupers.

There is a notable decrease among republicans of the talk about the South breaking up this year, and an increase of talk about the doubtfulness of the republicans holding their own in the northwest. This is significant, showing as it does that democratic prospects are recognized even by republicans to be steadily brightening. A republican said this morning: "Nothing but a serious blunder on the part of Mr. Cleveland or the democratic managers can prevent the success of the democrats." It was not a bad diagnosis of the situation, and it is for Mr. Cleveland and the democratic managers to see that no blunder is made.

Ground was broken on Monday for the foundation walls of the new building at the Normal School. A large force of men is at work, and the building will be pushed rapidly.

Cholera Scare Over.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The cholera scare is at an end and the quarantine officials are getting some rest. The event of yesterday was when P. T. Wall, who is in charge of the Surf Island house, sent Dr. Jenkins the following telegram: "I received this afternoon from the board of health of Islip a notice to vacate the premises within three days and that they would call on the citizens of the county to stop the landing of baggage. Captain Cockrane, commanding the militia here, says that all steamship baggage received here will be properly protected. We are in every way prepared to give them a warm reception"

Dr. Jenkins said, "Our men down there are advised of the situation, and will be prepared to resist any such action on the part of the citizens of Islip. There are thirty five state quarantine police, all provided with revolvers and 125 militiamen under command of Captain Cochrane.

During Court week transient boarders and lodgers can find accommodations at Phillips', Main St.

One reason why Scott's Emulsion of Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda has had such a large sale is because it is "Almost as palatable as milk;" but the best reason is that its curative properties are unequalled. Gen. Stevenson's Defamer.

To the Editor of The World.

I inclose you a clipping from a local Republican organ making grave accusations against A. E. Stevenson. Can you show any history or record showing Mr. Stevenson's position during the period of the war, or any other information that might be of value.

J. G. RUSSELL.

New Kingston. N. Y., Sept. 15.

[Gen. Stevenson resides in the city of Bloomington, Ill., and has resided there many years. The city and Congressional district in which it is situated are strongly Republican, yet on two occasions he has been elected to Congress as a Democrat, defeating the strongest Republican that could be pitted against him. This gentleman, who was a Union veteran, presided at the meeting held in Bloomington to welcome Gen. Stevenson on his arrival home after his nomination by the Chicago Convention, and no man was ever more warmly and generously indorsed by a political opponent then Gen. Stevenson by his old opponent at that time. This, and the fact that the Republicans and old soldiers of Bloomington hold Gen. Stevenson in high regard, coupled with the latter's own indignant denial of the charges referred to ought to be sufficient to satisfy any fair-minded man that the charges are obsolutely false.—ED. WORLD.]

CAMPAIGN SONGS.

Best Efforts in the New York World's Prize Competition.

[Air—"Uncle Sam's Farm."]

Throughout our glorious nation see our banners moving bright
For Cleveland and for Stevenson, the champions of right.
From Canada to Mexico, from Washington to Maine,
We will vote for Grover Cleveland for our president again.

CHORUS.

Then rally, Americans! Rally in your might;
Down with oppression and battle for the right.
Do not fail to cast your vote upon election morn
For Cleveland and for Stevenson, the champions of reform.

The burden of taxation is a heavy load to bear
By those who struggle on oppressed with poverty and care
While millionaires, protected, build their palaces abroad,
And spend the gold that they have gained by trickery and fraud.

The Republican committeemen are "frying out the fat,"
And Harrison is on his knees to Jimmy Blaine and Platt,
And begging hard for them to work to save him from defeat.
'Tis useless, for his forces are already in retreat.

Our right to vote as we may choose we never will forget,
And at the ballot box we need no gleaming bayonet.
The force bill is an outrage, too, all honest men concede,
'Twill prove a millstone 'round the necks of Harrison and Reid.

We want no better president than Cleveland was before;
We will elect him once again to serve us four years more.
Then, freemen, do your duty. For the honor of our land,
For Cleveland and for Stevenson united let us stand.

CHORUS.

Then rally, Americans! Rally in your might;
Down with oppression and battle for the right.
And when the rising sun shall gleam upon election morn,
'Twill shine on glorious victory for Cleveland and reform.

REPUBLICAN RECORD.

AN ABLE INDICTMENT OF HARRISON'S ADMINISTRATION.

Indiana Politics in National Affairs—Extravagance and Corruption—The Trade with Plutocrats—Some of the "Statesmen" of the Present Regime.

The issue in this campaign is the Republican record of the last four years.

It is a very bad record. It is a record of wrongdoing, of unfair favoritism in legislation and of scandalous misconduct in administration; a record of reckless squandering; of the debauchment of the public service; of corruption in office and in getting office, and of shameful malpractices in the attempt to retain power regardless of the popular will.

The administration and the Fifty-first congress came into power by plain purchase. The Republican party in 1888 secured its triumph by selling legislation short.

Abandoning all that it had professed and all that its leaders, living and dead, had taught concerning the limitations of right in tariff legislation, it framed a platform in Chicago in which it offered to monopolists such tariff rates as they should desire for their enrichment at the expense of the people, in return for contributions to the campaign fund.

The offer was accepted. The money was paid, and with it the notorious corruptionist, Matthew Quay, with his lieutenant, Dudley, was set to buy the election. When the funds ran low John Wanamaker purchased an option on a cabinet office by securing an additional contribution of $400,000 from the buyers of legislation upon a margin.

When the congress thus elected came together the Republican majority was too narrow and uncertain to do the work it had promised. It could not deliver the legislative goods it had sold to monopolists without resort to further unfairness and wrong. It proceeded to unseat members of the minority whom the people had elected and to seat Republicans whom the people had refused to elect, and not a man in all the majority was brave or honest enough to raise a voice in protest.

When the time came for debate the majority decided not to permit debate lest the truth be made plain to the people.

The rules of the house were revolutionized. A dictator of peculiarly arbitrary will was placed in the chair, who suppressed discussion, overrode all considerations of fairness, changed the house from a deliberative body into a mere machine for recording his determination, and thus enacted the measures of monopoly which the party had been paid in advance to pass.

In two short years this congress squandered an enormous surplus, reduced the treasury to the sorest straits, laid heavy burdens upon the people and upon industry, and made a determined, though fortunately a fruitless effort to rob the several states of the right of free elections in order to secure for the Republican party a longer lease of power. It sought to buy votes for the future by pension legislation of the most reckless and unjust character, whose shadow hangs like a pall over the finances of the country and must embarrass its prosperity for a generation to come.

The administration thus elected delivered to Wanamaker the cabinet office he had bought, put Tanner into the pension office, with his exultant exclamation, "God help the surplus!" hot upon his lips, and when his scandalous misconduct made his removal a necessity, put Raum there instead to work still larger mischief in less vociferous fashion, and to fill the office with speculations, peculations and scandals so shameful that even the Reed congress could not be dragooned into palliating them. And in spite of further and more flagrant exposure Raum is in office still!

The administration came into power protesting most solemnly its purpose to enforce the civil service law in letter and spirit, and to extend its scope and influence. It straightway set Clarkson at work to behead postmasters at a rate wholly unprecedented. The president openly farmed out the federal offices as spoils to such bosses as Quay and Platt, and quartered his own relatives and partners and chums upon the public service. When the civil service commission discovered the most flagrant and shameless abuses in Baltimore, and urged the removal of numbers of persons by name for proved misconduct amounting to criminality—misconduct perpetrated in the name and on behalf of the administration—the whole matter was jauntily put aside by Wanamaker, and the president in no way interfered to redeem his pledge or to free himself from the shame of it all.

Dudley was one of the agents in the purchase of Mr. Harrison's election, and he was found out. Mr. Harrison has since refused to hold intimate personal relations with the "blocks of five" statesman, but through his attorney general and former law partner he has interfered with the administration of justice in Dudley's case, has caused a judge upon the bench to shield and protect crime, and has since rewarded that judge for his corrupt subserviency by elevating him to a higher judicial position.

And within these later months the country has seen the president organize the civil service into a political machine, and with it compel his own nomination for a second term.

From the very beginning Mr. Harrison has used the appointing power as a means of securing a second term for himself. He resorted at the outset to a device justly denounced by the elder president of his name as wrong and dangerous. He muzzled the press of his own party so far as criticism of his administration was concerned. He made sure of the support of the prominent Republican newspapers for all his ambitions by putting their editors under obligations to himself for high office, carrying with it pecuniary rewards, political advantages or social distinction, according to the known need and desire of each of his beneficiaries.

In certain directions he filled the foreign service with incapable men to oblige unworthy interests. He sent Mizner to Central America, and kept him there long after the country had given expression to its disgust and humiliation with the conduct of an American minister who, in the interest of a speculative syndicate, sacrificed the honor of the nation and the flag.

He sent Egan and McCreery to Chili, with results grievously hurtful both to the good name and to the commercial interests of the country.

To Wanamaker he has added Elkins as a cabinet officer—Elkins, a political adventurer and speculator, who had grown rich out of politics without having won respect enough anywhere to make his name suggestive even of possibilities in connection with honorable office. He made Porter the superintendent of the census, knowing him to be an already discredited manipulator of statistics, a foreign adventurer destitute of convictions and in search of a market for his peculiar abilities, a man at that very time conducting business as a vulgar wine tout in combination with politics, and ready to placard his advertisements in the executive mansion itself. He permitted this man to falsify the census of great states by way of robbing them of their just representation and thus increasing the chances of that party's success to whose service he had hired himself.

It is a sad and shameful story of pledges broken; of fiscal legislation bartered for campaign funds; of elections secured by the purchase of voters; of high office made the subject of vulgar traffic; of the public service, including the most honorable places, prostituted to the promotion of the president's personal ambitions; of a court converted into a sanctuary for the protection of a scoundrel; of judicial subserviency rewarded with high judicial place; of debate suppressed in congress; of a surplus squandered, and of the enormous increase of the people's tax burdens that the proceeds might flow into the coffers of favored monopolists willing to share their spoil with the political organization that made its collection possible.

It is a grievous indictment that is here made, but it is perfectly true and it covers but a part of the truth. The specifications will come later. The facts will be given upon which every accusation rests. The whole record will be laid bare—that record which the people by their votes in November are to approve or condemn.

And this is not a mere recalling of old errors—a recurrence of offenses repented of. The courses that condemn this administration have been continuous. Raum is still at the head of the pension bureau, and that bureau is not reformed or purified. Marshal Airey still holds office in Baltimore, notwithstanding Commissioner Roosevelt's report as to his organization of the postoffice and custom house employees there into a band of political ruffians, his use of them to carry primaries in the administration's interest by wholesale cheating and by actual physical violence in which he personally participated.

Neither he nor Postmaster Johnson nor any of their subordinates have been removed, though their conduct was fully set forth and their removal strongly urged by Mr. Roosevelt, a Republican member of the civil service commission: though some of them, according to Mr. Roosevelt's report, deliberately testified to lies; though many of them openly confessed to cheating; though all of them set at naught the law against political assessments, and though they all professed with more or less of candor the creed of lying, cheating and ballot box stuffing which the testimony showed that they had practiced.

These men who, as one of them put it in his testimony, believed "in doing anything to win," are still in office by grace of Mr. Wanamaker's favor and Mr. Harrison's neglect of duty. And they still constitute the administration machine in Baltimore and Maryland politics.

In brief, the administration is what it has been. It profits still by the practices for which honest men in both parties have condemned it in the past. It protects its scoundrels and law breakers. It keeps them in office. It uses them in politics. It sanctions their creeds and their performances. It sent them and such as them to Minneapolis to nominate Mr. Harrison for a second term in spite of any desire the Republican party might have for some other candidate.

It still looks to the monopolies it has fostered for the money with which to carry the election. In their behalf it has not only made laws, but has neglected and refused to enforce such laws as there are on the statute books adverse to them. The coal conspiracy has been formed during this administration. Without let or hindrance it has levied a tribute upon the people in face of the antitrust law. That law makes it the imperative duty of the attorney general, through the district attorneys, to bring criminal prosecutions against all the conspirators; but no district attorney has moved, and the attorney general weakly protests that he has no information touching the conspiracy.

In the interest of good government it is necessary to chastise official misconduct by defeat. The men and the party now in power must be sent into retirement for the public good. Our public life is in need of disinfection. It is time to restore legislation to its proper service of all the people.

The simple facts of these four years' history constitute the most conclusive reasons for refusing to intrust this administration or the party it represents with a further lease of power. It will be the purpose of this series of letters to lay those facts clearly before the public. —New York World.

The Proof Is Everywhere.

There is not a true Democrat in the country who is not opposed to what the Republican leaders call protection, and who does not admit it without having "proof" thrust into his face.—Harrisburg Patriot.

M'KINLEYISM.

What It Has Really Done for the American Farmer.

If America could sell to Europe as much grain and flour during the coming year as she has sold during the last year, the immediate future would be bright enough for this country. But this is not to be hoped for. From now on it is a certainty that our exports to Europe will decline. Even during the last twelve months Europe has not been a good customer of America except as she has been driven to it by crop failure and famine. Her purchases from us, with the exception of grain and breadstuffs, have declined, and if good crops relieve her this year from the necessity of buying so largely of our breadstuffs, it is morally certain that the volume of her purchases from us will materially decrease.

The cause is plain. It is McKinleyism. The same McKinleyism which is forcing Europe to seek other outlets for her manufactured goods is leading her to seek other markets in which to purchase those things she needs. A country will trade with those nations that trade with her, and America is already beginning to feel in the reduction of her exports to Europe the truth of this rule. For a season Europe has been forced to buy our grain by reason of crop failures and famine to an unusually large extent. If it were not for McKinleyism she would have paid us for our grain largely in manufactured articles.

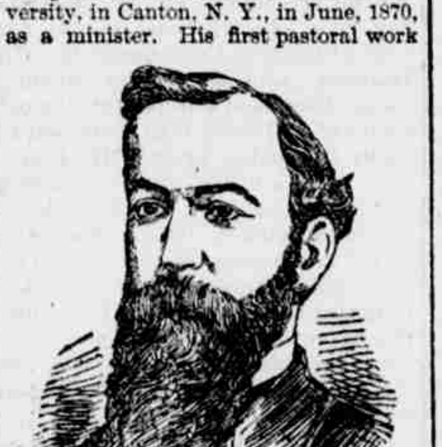
Major McKinley boasted that she would be forced to pay in money, but statistics show that since the McKinley bill passed we have sent more money to Europe than Europe has sent to us. Europe declines to be forced to pay money. The interruption of trade by McKinleyism has resulted in the withdrawal of millions of dollars of credit. Many great European institutions which kept heavy balances of money on this side of the water for the purpose of trade and financial operations have called those balances home. Many millions of dollars in American securities held abroad have been sent back to this country in exchange for gold.

In other words, Europe is collecting many of the debts which America owes her, just as a banker will require a merchant to pay notes if he takes his deposits away from the bank.

One good crop in Europe, one year during which Europe will be able to get along with less of our grain and flour, will show in a clearer light the destructive effects of McKinleyism upon the United States. It will show how much that ism has done to estrange the great customer for the surplus products of American farms.—Omaha World-Herald.

A Democratic Candidate.

Luther Franklin McKinney, the Democratic candidate for governor of New Hampshire, was born in Ohio, April 25, 1841. He lived on a farm with his father, and when eighteen years of age began to teach school during the winter. He served gallantly in the Union army. He graduated from St. Lawrence university, in Canton, N. Y., in June, 1870, as a minister. His first pastoral work was done in Maine, but in 1873 he removed to New Hampshire. Mr. McKinney was defeated for the Forty-ninth congress, elected to the Fiftieth, defeated for the Fifty-first and elected to the Fifty-second. Well informed politicians consider Mr. McKinney's election to the governorship of New Hampshire almost certain.



HON. L. F. M'KINNEY.

Nothing to Conceal.

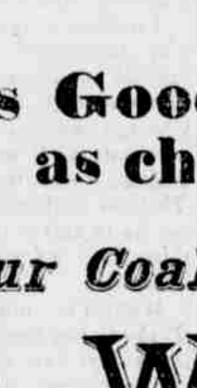
Chairman Harrity is right when he says the Democracy has nothing to conceal about this coming campaign. This is to be a campaign of principle by the people and for the people. There is no occasion for sharp practice—there never is—and the fight must be open and above board. The position of the party is well defined, and because of its position it asks the support of all friends of good government. When Democracy has won its victory, as it seems certain it will, the people will know just what to expect.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

McKinley a Democratic Vote Maker.

The Leader believes that Mr. McKinley's speeches in Nebraska have made and will make thousands of votes for the Democratic party. The average voter will readily and rightly conclude that if this great apostle of protection can offer, in support of a 60 per cent. tariff on necessities, no reason nor argument other than the dishonest and absurd assertion that the tariff tax is paid by the foreigner and that such tax does not increase the price to the consumer, then indeed must modern protection be indefensible.—Des Moines Leader.

What Is Wrong with It?

If the McKinley law is not responsible for strikes neither is it to be credited with averting them. Ever since the law went into operation there have been continuous strikes in protected industries. And inasmuch as the law is made for the protection of labor, the people who are paying the expense of it are quite right in asking what is wrong with it.—Toledo Bee.



An open letter to women. No. 1.
Laurel Ave., San Francisco,
May 18, 1892.

"Dear friend of women:

"When my baby was born, five years ago, I got up in six days. Far too soon. Result: falling of the womb. Ever since I've been miserable.

"I tried everything: doctors, medicines, apparatus; but grew worse.

"I could hardly stand; and walking without support was impossible.

"At last I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it. The effect was astonishing. Since I took the first bottle my womb has not troubled me, and, thanks only to you, I am now well. Every suffering woman should know how reliable your compound is. It is a sure cure."

is a family affair—a requisite of the home. A 25 cent package makes 5 gallons of a delicious, strengthening, effervescent beverage.

Keep Your Eye on Godey's.

There is every indication that Godey's Magazine for October, ready September 15th, will mark an era in periodical literature. This will no longer be known as Godey's Ladies' Book, but, Godey's, America's First Magazine, Established 1830. In the first place, the magnificent work of art "Godey's Idea of the 'World's Fair,'" which is to be presented to every purchaser of this number, is said to be so beautiful and artistic in design and coloring that every one will want it. It is a faithful reproduction of one of W. Granville Smith's latest and greatest pictures, produced expressly for Godey's. The publishers guarantee that the Magazine itself will be filled with surprises and beauties from cover to cover. First in the contents comes John Habberton's complete novel "Honey and Gall," a companion to "Helen's Babies," fully illustrated by Albert B. Wenzell. This is an idea first conceived by Godey's and now produced with brilliant success. Godey's fashions will be a most conspicuous and beautiful feature of the publication, there being, in addition to carefully edited descriptions and fashion articles, four exquisite plates produced in ten colors, and representing four of the leaders of New York society, attired in the latest Paris costumes. Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher's "Home" department will be read by the women of America with delight, and all the Magazine's old admirers will read with interest Albert H. Hardy's carefully written article on "Godey's Past and Present." Among the choice verses is the latest poem written by the late Josephine Pollard. John Habberton reviews all the books, and the whole forms such a rich literary feast that to examine a number of the new Godey's will mean to irresistibly desire it.

A CARDINAL'S JOKE.

CONTEMPT OF COURT WHERE THE COURT DIDN'T SEE IT.

From the Catholic News.

When Cardinal Gibbons was Bishop of Richmond, Va., he happened to be the defendant in relation to some church property.

When called to the witness stand the plaintiff's lawyer, a distinguished legal luminary, after vain endeavors to involve the witness in contradiction, struck upon plan a which he thought would annoy the Bishop He thereupon questioned the right of Dr. Gibbons to the title of Bishop of Richmond, and called upon him to prove his claim to the office.

The defendant's counsel, of course objected to this as irrelevant; but the Bishop, with a quiet smile, said he would comply with the request if allowed half an hour to produce the necessary papers. This being allowed, the Bishop left the court room and returned in twenty minutes with a document which he proceeded to read with great solemnity, all the more solemn as the paper was in Latin. The plaintiff's lawyer pretended to take notes, industriously bowing his head once in a while as if in acquiescence, and seeming perfectly convinced at the end.

When the reading was finished he announced that the Papal bulls just read were perfectly satisfactory, at the same time apologizing for his expressed doubts. The next day, says the Halifax (N.S.) Mail, it leaked out that the Bishop, unable to find the Papal bull at his residence, had brought to the court and read a Latin essay on Pope Leo the Great, written by an ecclesiastical student and forwarded by the president of the college as a specimen of the young man's skill in Latin composition. The smart lawyer never heard the last of it.

HOW TO BRING DOWN A SON.

Let him have plenty of spending money.

Permit him to choose his own companions, without restraint or direction.

Give him a latch-key and allow him to return home late in the evening.

Make no inquiry as to where and with whom he spends his leisure moments.

Give him to understand that manners make a good substitute for morality.

Teach him to expect pay for every act of helpfulness to others.

HOW TO BRING UP A SON.

Make home the brightest and most attractive place on earth.

Make him responsible for the performance of a limited number of daily duties.

Talk frankly with him on matters in which he is interested.

Sometimes invite his friends to your home and table. Take pains to know his associates.

Encourage his confidence by giving ready sympathy and advice. Be careful to impress upon his mind that making character is more important than making money.

WHY WAGES GO UP.

An Important Question Answered by a Competent Authority.

The protectionist says that wages go up because of the taxes he levies on labor.

The truth is that wages go up because labor becomes more effective. If two men with improved machinery can produce what four men did before, the pay of each of the four being a dollar a day, the employer can afford to pay each of the two men $1.50. He will make a dollar a day by the operation, and the cost of labor in his product will be just that much less than it was.

In a late number of The American Wool and Cotton Reporter is a capital answer to the question we have asked. Today the help that ten years ago tended 120 spindles in worsted mills are tending 160 spindles, "making the increased production, it is declared, of at least equal quality."

The Noble comb has taken the place of the Lister comb, and it "gives double the quantity of top in the same time from the same stock."

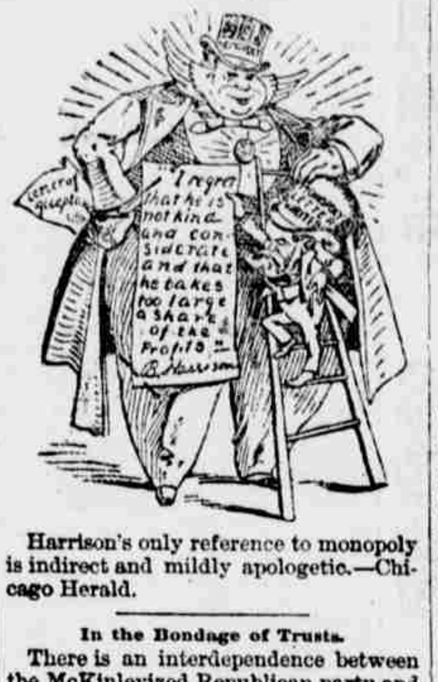
The change from the fly to the ring frame gives 4,000 revolutions a minute instead of 2,600.

Machine dyeing has taken the place of hand methods, so that "in the use of acid dyestuffs feats are accomplished in less than two hours, and in the employment of sweet dyes in less than four hours, that by the uncertain hand processes would demand several days for their performance."

These are facts that have had a strong influence on wages in the worsted industry. Wages depend upon efficiency and product as well as upon the law of supply and demand. Invention has greatly multiplied man's power, and therefore the man receives more for his work than he did when his tools enabled him to produce less.

When a protectionist says that wages depend upon a statute that he has composed he is simply slandering human genius.—New York World.

Benny's Regrets.



I regret that he is not kind and considerate and that he takes too large a share of the profits — B. Harrison

Harrison's only reference to monopoly is indirect and mildly apologetic.—Chicago Herald.

In the Bondage of Trusts.

There is an interdependence between the McKinleyized Republican party and the trusts. The trusts supply the funds by which the Republican party is to be returned to power, and the party hopes to pass the force bill, surround the ballot boxes in the southern states with bayonets and maintain itself perpetually in power. In the language of the New York Tribune, there are 100 tariff measures in the force bill. No voter who objects to the domination of trusts and monopolies can vote to return the Republican party to power. The party is in the bondage of trusts and is willing to subverse the liberties of the people to permit their masters to amass wealth at the expense of the toiling millions.—Utica (N. Y.) Observer.

Cleveland Is No Straddler.

Cleveland wrote his famous tariff reform message as a sacrifice of policy to principle. He has time and again proven that he dared assert his views frankly, fully and plainly whenever occasion required, without regard to the consequences to himself. Cleveland certainly has earned immunity from the charge of being a straddler. He is exactly the opposite. No public man of the day is more positive and plain in the statement of his views. This fact has won the respect even of his political foes.—Omaha World-Herald.

Harrison Is a Vote Repeller.

In 1888 the Republican managers insisted that Harrison should spend the campaign at Indianapolis. He did not place his foot in New York state during the canvass. In the case of a man of Harrison's cold and somewhat repellent temperament this was good policy. If the Republican leaders reverse that policy now, their move will be regarded as a last desperate card in a losing game.—Rochester (N. Y.) Herald.

Raum Will Stick, if Possible.

Raum, one of the administration scandals, says that he has not resigned and that he has no intention to do so. Perhaps he has an understanding with the president that his resignation is not to be asked for. He may hold his job until next March, but he certainly will not hold it any longer than that.—Sioux City (Ia.) Tribune.

"Keep A-pushin and A-shovin."

Keep moving along, fellow Democrats. The fight for Cleveland will be a victorious one if persistently, vigorously made. But we must not stop for one day. Keep right along with discussions, arguments, practical work. What a great ticket we have to work for!—Harrisburg Patriot.

One Result of High Protection.

The people will understand that the additional burden placed upon their shoulders by the presence of the state troops at Homestead is the result of the policy of high protection as taught by the Republican party.—Williamsport (Pa.) Sun.

Dr. G. C. Osgood, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kincheloe, Conway, Ark.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
